Magnificent Mud Mania

The growing sports phenomenon of motocross racing hit southwestern Michigan in a big way Sunday when more than 8,000 spectators braved cold rains to watch the Trans-AMA international races at Red Bud Track and Trail course near Buchanan. Event was both magnificent and muddy as crowd scene at right and bespattered cyclist below indicate. Additional photos and story appear on front page of Section Four. (Staff photo by Harry Smith)

SWAINSON'S TRIAL BEGINNING

High Court Judge Facing Bribery Charge

BIGGEST HAUL OF ALLEGED MARIJUANA: State Troopers Gary Chappell (left) and Thomas Harken of Benton Harbor post inspect three bags containing about 200 pounds of alleged marijuana, confiscated after troopers stopped car for speeding on I-94, Benton township, early today. Suspected marijuana is most ever seized by Benton Harbor post and would have estimated street value of up to $64,000 if sold in small quantities, troopers said. Two Grand Rapids men were arrested. DETROIT (AP) — Michigan Supreme Court Justice John B. Swainson, long a bright star in the state Democratic party, is in the spotlight once again today as final preparations begin for his trial on bribery-conspiracy charges.

Today's federal court action was to include jury selection for Swainson and two co-defendants. More than 100 witnesses are due to testify.

Swainson, a former Michigan governor and state senator, has made only one public statement since his indictment, by a federal grand jury July 3.

That was on Aug. 30 when he told newsmen, "I never took money from anyone."

Swainson, along with Charles B. Goldfarb, a Detroit bail bondsman, and Harvey Wish, a former Detroit bondsman, were accused by a federal grand jury of mail fraud, perjury and conspiracy.

The indictments charges Swainson agreed to accept $20,000 of a $30,000 payment made by convicted burglar John J. Whalen to get a favorable ruling from the State Supreme Court on his bid for a new trial.

All 12 federal judges in Detroit declined to hear the case because of their friendship or working relationship with the former governor who had been mentioned frequently as a possible candidate for his party's senatorial nomination in 1976 to succeed retiring Sen. Philip A.

Hart D-Mich.

The 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals assigned Federal Judge Carl B. Rubin of Cincinnati to conduct the trial which is expected to be a lengthy one.

More than 20 FBI agents are among the government witnesses slated to detail the alleged bribery conspiracy.

It reportedly began after the 1970 conviction of Whalen on a burglary charge in Adrian.

The government contends the Michigan Supreme Court declined twice in 1972 to grant Whalen a rehearing but that in October of that year it agreed to hear the case. In Dec. 1973, it ordered a new trial for Whalen and he was convicted again. He is out on bond awaiting an appeal of that conviction.

The government has not made public the evidence it says will show that $20,000 of the $30,000 went to Swainson or what happened to the other $10,000.

Neil Welch, former special agent in charge of the Detroit FBI bureau, said recently the FBI proceeded with greater care than usual in its investigation of the Swainson matter.

He said a former governor and supreme court justice is not charged with bribery without "great deliberation."

Perjury charges against Whalen in connection with a burglary at the home of a Detroit police officer were dismissed in Detroit Recorder's Court Oct. 11.

The dismissal was seen by some as a blow to the Swainson defense, since the defense had hoped the perjury charge would State police of the Benton Harbor post reported about 200 pounds of alleged marijuana was seized early today when a car was stopped for speeding on I-94, Benton township.

Troopers Thomas Harken and Gary Chappell said they stopped a car on I-94 in Benton township shortly before 6 a.m. traveling 74 in a 55 mile zone. The two occupants of the car were arrested on charges of violation of the controlled substance act after suspected marijuana residue was detected in the car's ashtray.

On searching the car, Harken and Chappell found three large plastic bags with about 200 pounds of alleged marijuana. They said the street value of the WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ford administration asked Congress today to deny food stamps to families whose income exceeds the government's poverty level.

Under the administration proposal, recipients would be allowed to earn $6,550 a year and still be eligible for food stamps if one of its members was 60 years old or older.

But the family would be required to pay 30 per cent of their income for their food stamps after making the $100 deduction each month.

The government's official poverty level for a four-member family is $5,050 a year. The administration proposal allows for an additional $100 a month to accommodate expenses, plus $25 a month if the family includes a senior citizen.

Under the administration proposal recipients would be required to pay 30 per cent of their income for their food stamps after making the $100 deduction each month.

"We believe the poverty line is an appropriate benchmark for eligibility because it has been developed and used to denote that segment of the population whose income is not

Don't Blame The Schools For Uneducable Kids

People who remember when the high school diploma represented more than a testimony that the holder more or less attended 12 years of classroom presentation have good reason to worry about the current state of affairs. Not only have colleges found it necessary for years to offer remedial reading and other elementary courses just to bring their students up to college level, but California is adding an interesting new wrinkle.

This year for the first time 16 and 17-year-olds will be permitted to leave school in California and will be granted a "certificate of proficiency" if they pass a test proving they are literate. Further, according to the state's school superintendent, the certificate might be worth more than a diploma because the regular high school diploma does not guarantee that the graduate can read.

As examples of the type of question which could be included in the 200-question test to earn a certificate, a student might be required to fill out a job application form or balance a check book. How many of California's 670,000 students of the covered ages will take advantage of the state's early dismissal program is not known, but the state must be anticipating a popular acceptance because it is establishing 100 test centers to handle the applicants.

Public schools are what our politics and social welfare system create. Let's blame ourselves, not the teachers, if we're sending millions of youngsters to school who have no incentive to learn.

The California educators are just being realists. Maybe the fact that their students can fill out job forms and balance checkbooks mean California has an exceptional school system, not a poor one.

Another 'Victory' For The Public Protectors

Horatio Alger is dead, put out of business by a bureaucrat more interested in form than substance. Horatio in this instance is a young man named Steve Shalita, a Van Nuys, Calif., resident who decided the time had come in his life to strike out in the business world on his own.

Shalita opened a bike repair shop, not a bad enterprise for a lad of 11 who had been tinkering with bikes since he was 5. Soon Steve hired a friend to help, but it didn't work out and the friend was given $6 "severance pay" and was fired. The friend complained to authorities and that is when Steve learned something about bureaucracy.

Someone from the state showed up at the Shalita residence, extracted

There'll probably be a great hue and cry blaming California educators because high school education has come down to the ability to fill out a form or maintain a checkbook. But to a large extent, such criticism is misplaced.

Public education in this country hasn't covered itself with glory the past quarter of a century, but neither can it be held responsible for the illiterates and semi-literates coming out of high schools.

That fact is that far too many homes in America are sending youngsters to school who simply are not educable. There's not enough backing, interest or culture at home to make them so.

Take a look at the results of the Michigan education achievement tests. They'll show an amazingly close correlation between what kids learn with the kind of homes they come from.

Public schools are what our politics and social welfare system create. Let's blame ourselves, not the teachers, if we're sending millions of youngsters to school who have no incentive to learn.

The California educators are just being realists. Maybe the fact that their students can fill out job forms and balance checkbooks mean California has an exceptional school system, not a poor one.

further reimbursement for the fired employee (one pair of handlebars), suggested Steve turn his business into a hobby or he could be found guilty of breaking any number of laws, and left.

Steve's shop is now a dark room in which he develops film for other people, but not as a business he hastens to add. He "learned all about that stuff," the young entrepreneur explained. What was it he learned?

"Make sure I don't get in trouble with the state and don't trust any of my friends."

And somewhere in the labyrinths of bureaucracy a public servant marked his file closed on another case in behalf of the people.

Muskie Begins To Sound Like Reagan, Goldwater

When leading liberal politicians begin abandoning the big government, high tax, huge public spending syndrome of which they have been disciples, politics indeed is going through a major evolutionary change.

That abandonment process is underway now as many of the leading liberal spokesmen of the past adopt anti-big government themes for the present.

Although the conversions may amuse long-time advocates of reduced government dependence like Barry Goldwater and Ronald Reagan, the conversions taking place so far are not necessarily along ideological lines. What the politicians of all philosophies are confronting is a public attitude which ranges from apathy to outrage, but underlining all the emotions is a growing suspicion that government programs not only do not live up to their billings, but cost far more than they should.

Consider these excerpts from a speech made recently to a meeting of the Liberal Party of New York, a bastion of old-style liberal politics if there ever was one:

"In the past decade American liberals have developed an ideology and state of mind that is narrow, unimaginative and often irrelevant. We must adopt government reform as our first priority — as an end in itself.

"We must recognize that an efficient government — well managed, cost effective, equitable and responsible — is in itself a social good."

Those words from Sen. Edmund Muskie, one of the Senate's most consistent liberals, are an indication of the changes taking place.

Speaking Of Odd Couples-

Caught In The Squirrel Cage... And Nobody Can Get Out

Editor:

This letter is being written to encourage the change of certain policies of the Berrien County Fifth District court.

Yesterday, Oct. 15, I appeared at Fifth District court to answer charges of failure to maintain equipment. I have no complaint with the citation or the state police, who issued this citation after a traffic safety check. But I did leave the Fifth District court very angry and frustrated.

My day began with a call to my insurance company for repairs to a cracked windshield. I then went to a job site in Benton Harbor to layout some work for an employee. I then went and made an appointment at Auto Clinic, for repairs to headlights and turning signals. Next, I went to South St. Joseph and picked up the repair order to the windshield from my insurance company. I then ordered some materials from a lumber company in St. Joseph for the job in Benton Harbor. At two o'clock, I went to the auto clinic and they made the necessary repairs to the truck lights. From here, I went to the state police post and an officer checked the truck lights and made a notation on a slip of paper that the truck lights were working.

So, I proceeded to the court house and entered the counter area of Fifth District court. A lady behind the counter took my citation from me and went to a filing cabinet. She returned with some papers and asked, "How do you plead?" "Well they weren't working at the time", I said, meaning the truck lights. I noticed she wrote "guilty" on a slip of paper and then the nice lady said, "that will be $19". "$19" came from my mouth as my blood pressure went up. "Yes", returned this nice lady. "I plead not guilty then". I returned. The lady said, "you go to the next window then". Taking my papers, I went to the next window.

The second lady took my papers and soon asked, "How do you plead?" "Not guilty", I spoke. This second nice lady said, "that will be $20 to post bond for a trial appearance".

I reached for my wallet and looking inside saw a $10 bill and a few $1 bills. "I don't have $20, can I write a check?", I asked. "No, we don't accept checks", said this second lady.

"What happens now, do you put me in jail"? I asked. "No", replied the lady, "you can bring the money in tomorrow".

I don't know if I thanked the lady or not, but I turned and left, somewhat angry and dazed.

I looked at my watch and it was almost 3:30 p.m. So, I walked to a bank, near the Conkey's hall.

Campaigns Keyed To Personal Style

WASHINGTON — Most of the Democratic Presidential candidates thus far sound so similar on questions of substance there is little to distinguish one from the other.

Each has, however, tried to compensate to the lack of meaty controversy by establishing an independent personal style.

Mo Udall is the campaign wit. Fred Harris is the poor boy who tries hard. Sarge Shriver is Camelot revisited. Jimmy Carter is the sophisticated Southerner. Lloyd Bentsen is the businessman's friend. And Scoop Jackson is Mr. Experience, dull but reliable.

The eight Democrats who are already officially in the contest provided clues as to how they wished to be viewed in their carefully staged formal announcements.

Bryan sometimes describes himself as a country boy, and he really is. He inherited a 350-acre farm from his father; he and his wife Marvella worked it for several years until he went on to more prosperous adventures, and it remains their official Indiana residence. He will make his announcement over coffee and donuts with his neighbors at the farm, which is the most symbolic and the most imaginative.

After that, Bryan will get down to business with an organizational luncheon, a university rally, a fund-raiser and a flight to New Hampshire to begin his campaign there. ## ECONOMY IMPROVES

There's Dispute-But

We're Getting Stronger

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Questions being asked about the economy:

— Is the big increase in Gross National Product for the third quarter of the year a forerunner of things to come?

While some professional observers say the third-quarter figures show the economy is surging ahead, others are expressing doubts. They tend not to rely as they once did on the authenticity of statistics.

Some critics say the GNP figures are distorted by more inflation than we seem to realize. That is, what appears to be a husky surge of output really contains a lot of bloat.

Others comment that much of the production simply is going into the rebuilding of depleted inventories and that unless consumer buying improves many of the goods will remain right in inventories.

Don Conlon, former economist for the Cost of Living Council, now executive vice president of a consulting organization, Capital Strategic Services, is telling clients not to expect any positive growth in GNP for the final quarter of the year.

Will steel producers be able to make their prices stick?

The Council on Wage and Price Stability has already expressed the opinion that recent increases in steel prices were unjustified in terms of market conditions. They suggested prices might have to fall.

Another economic condition now might add to downward pressures. The U.S. economy is recovering faster than the economies of Japan and European nations.

That raises the possibility that, unable to maintain sales in their own countries, foreign steelmakers will ship increasing amounts of their product here and force American producers to lower their prices.

In times past it wasn't uncommon for the domestic steel industry to seek governmental protection from imports in the form of tariffs, and there is once again industry pressure for doing so again.

However, the Council on Wage and Price Stability has already forewarned the industry that it cannot hope to obtain protection

CHAMBER'S ROLE IN CETA TOLD

'Anti-Business' Charge Denied By Curry

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Twin Cities Area Chamber of Commerce through its administration of federal funds is promoting business and employment in Berrien county,

ROGER CURRY
Chamber official

according to Roger Curry, executive vice president of the chamber.

Curry was asked by The Herald-Palladium to comment on charges by Mrs. Helen Ford that the chamber is "anti-business" and is receiving grants for the disadvantaged that should go to other agencies including Berrien County Action, Inc. (BCA).

Mrs. Ford is executive director of BCA, which she described as the county's authorized anti-poverty agency. She made the charges in a letter published in The Herald-Palladium Oct. 7.

Curry replied: "The top priority of the chamber is, and always has been, to promote business. That priority also means a trained labor force and reductions in absenteeism so business can operate efficiently."

The chamber's board of directors as major employers in Berrien county know what it takes to make a productive employee, Curry said. "They believe these CETA-funded federal Comprehensive Training Act) programs a justifiable rightful and local activity for the chamber to be involved in as it will benefit Berrien county socially and economically with better utilization of government funds."

Curry said "Berrien county commissioners recognized the problem the county has had with unemployment and manpower training. To correct this the county became a prime sponsor for the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act. Berrien county has awarded contracts to a number of agencies including the Chamber of Commerce."

Curry said CETA programs run through the chamber are budgeted for $438,800 in the 1975-76 fiscal year — about 12 per cent of the CETA outlay in the county.

Curry said Mrs. Ford was mistaken in stating the chamber had applied for Head Start funds for training preschool children.

"It's Quick Start, not Head Start. Quick Start is a state-funded program for training adult workers to meet needs of new and/or expanded industries," Curry explained.

Mrs. Ford also said the chamber got a $110,000 grant "to train and employ disadvantaged youths in summer work-recreation program. The program was not considered successful. This takes away from the chamber's main job of promoting commerce in the county."

Curry said the actual expenditure was $86,401 for placing of 1,291 youths, including salaries for 167 public employment. A balance of about $27,000 will be returned.

Summer youth employment is eight years old in the Twin City area. In 1975, the program was run by the chamber alone for the first time with CETA funds, and 1,094 more youths were placed in private jobs (mostly farm work) than last year, Curry said.

In promotion of business, Curry cited the chamber's economic development department and small business assistance program.

Since last December, the economic development department has assisted 11 county industries with paper work toward getting industrial facilities tax exemptions that will result in expansions totaling $4.38 million and 250 new jobs, Curry said. Six have been approved by the state and the others are awaiting final authorization. The department is funded partly with CETA funds.

Curry said the chamber's small business assistance program offers consultation and help in getting loans. In the past year assistance was completed to 131 businesses.

The chamber also operates a job development program with CETA funds which reimburses an employer 50 per cent of a trainee's pay for up to 18 weeks. Curry said there were 98 contracts written on the job training since last December; 48 are still in force. 28 people have been retained as employees after training and 22 terminated during or after training.

The program hires three job developers who call on employers seeking jobs for the unemployed and disadvantaged. The job developers also offer programs to cut absenteeism.

Curry said CETA funds also go through the chamber for vocational education, which has 60 people enrolled, including 50 on ADL. The training is taken at Lake Michigan college, Southwestern Michigan college, beauty colleges, truck driving schools and one person is enrolled in a horseshoeing school.

A career awareness program funded by CETA is aimed at exposing 1,200 high school sophomores to the world of work. Curry said six high schools — Benton Harbor, Berrien Springs, Bridgeman, Coloma, Galien and River Valley — are participating this year.

change:

— Reduce driving speed and increase distance between vehicles.

— Be particularly alert to pedestrians and bicyclists.

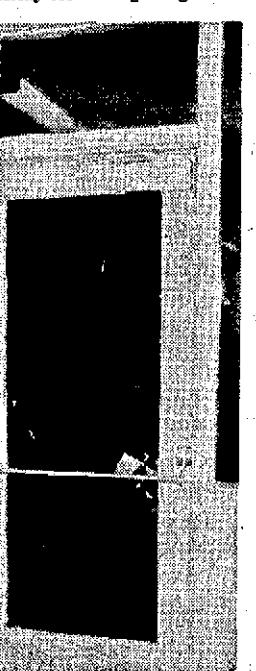

— Begin long-distance trips early and arrive at destinations before dark.

— Remember not to look directly into glaring headlights. Center vision should be focused on the right edge of the traffic lane while oncoming light should be kept in the motorist's side vision.

— Be sure windshields, headlights and taillights are clean to insure maximum visibility.

BHHS GRAD WORKING IN ALASKA Pipeline Jobs Pay $28,000 A Year

By MIKE WYNGARDEN
Staff Writer
Geoffrey Prior, a 1968 graduate of Benton Harbor high school, is one of 25 Michigan State University geology students working on the Alaskan pipeline — not your ordinary, every-day, garden variety, run-of-the-mill type of student job.

In promotion of business, Curry cited the chamber's economic development department and small business assistance program.

Since last December, the economic development department has assisted 11 county industries with paper work toward getting industrial facilities tax exemptions that will result in expansions totaling $4.38 million and 250 new jobs, Curry said. and beard.

Room is nothing to write home about, but board, that's something else. It means a choice of steak, lobster and king crab for dinner almost every night.

Prior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Prior, Red Arrow highway, Lakeside, received his bachelor of science degree from MSU in 1974. He is married to Kathy Vujea, a MSU student from Grand Rapids. When not going to school, the couple lives in Leesburg, Va.

MSU is one of several universities participating in a program with the Williams Pipeline Co., in which geology students are able to gain practical experience in Alaska.

The work is hard, says Professor F.W. Cambray, chairman of MSU's geology department, but the experience is valuable and the pay is good.

The steaks, lobsters and king crab are some of the fringe benefits, says Jeff Ayres of Rochester, a senior at MSU who spend the past year working on the pipeline. Employees live in company provided trailer-type barracks about 300 feet long.

Scattered along the entire length of the pipeline, most of the MSU students are involved in one-site investigations of the foundations. As holes are being drilled for the pipes, geologists must be on hand to confirm that the soil conditions are proper for construction.

"It's a critical decision to make," says Cambray, "because if it's wrong the pipe could collapse resulting in an oil spill."

The geologists must confirm that the foundations are as were estimated before the drawing of the plans. The type of soil affects engineering and environmental decisions.

"The pipe that they have now is of good and safe environmental design," says Ayres. Although initially there was concern that the pipeline could affect migration habits, Ayres noted that the caribou and bears "like the pipeline, because it gives them something to scratch their backs on in the treeless area."

During the winter months the temperature averages about 35 degrees in the Fairbanks area. Daylight lasts only a few hours in the winter, so most of the work on the pipeline is done by floodlight.

"You get used to the cold," says Ayres, "and pretty soon you start running around from truck to truck in shirt sleeves."

Work lasts about 12 to 14 hours each day, seven days a week for eight weeks, at which time the students are granted a two-week leave. "Some of the students come back to MSU to visit," said Cambray, "while others take off for Hawaii or somewhere."

Prior began a two year contract with the pipeline company in November, 1974. He is working towards a master's degree in geology from MSU. The Priors lived at 217 Messner drive, Fairplain, from 1962 to 1971.

Works on Pipeline

Panel Discussion On Roads Slated

A panel discussion of the interstate highway system will be held at the annual meeting of the Federal Highway Administration.

Brummel said the meeting at 7:30 p.m. is open to the general public, and a question and answer period will follow the panel presentation. Organically grown apple cider also will be served.

The geologists must confirm that the foundations are as were estimated before the drawing of the plans. The type of soil affects engineering and environmental decisions.

"The pipe that they have now is of good and safe environmental design," says Ayres. Although initially there was concern that the pipeline could affect migration habits, Ayres noted that the caribou and bears "like the pipeline, because it gives them something to scratch their backs on in the treeless area."

During the winter months the temperature averages about 35 degrees in the Fairbanks area. Daylight lasts only a few hours

Lions Double Scholarships

The value of four-year scholarships awarded by the Lakeshore Lions has been increased from $500 to $1,000.

The increases, which are effective immediately, were announced by James Woodrow, chairman of the Lions' scholarship committee.

Present holders of the scholarships are Sharon Johnson, a senior at Western Michigan University; Barbara Johnson, sophomore at Lake Michigan College; and Wesley Harper, a freshman at Central Michigan University.

The Johnson sisters are daughters of Mrs. Phyllis Johnson.

Bridge Musical Gap

DETROIT (AP) — A musical experiment in Detroit to show youngsters how to bridge the gap between "soul" and "symphony" will be aired by NBC-TV Oct. 21.

The one-hour "Special Treat" for children will combine a concert by the Detroit Symphony, Blood, Sweat and Tears, and other leading pop performers. The special was filmed on Belle Isle, a picturesque island park just five blocks from Detroit's most densely populated neighborhood.

"We're trying to motivate youngsters to make the trip between soul and symphony," said Rift Fournier, producer of the special.

The concert, before an audience of 3,000 Detroit youngsters, also features a soul opera.

"Twelfth Street," with the program's host Wolfman Jack, Melba Moore, the Blackbirds and the chorus and dancers of the Northwestern high school of Detroit.

FAMILY ROOMS have been one of the most popular features of newer homes in recent years . . . even though many a person has said, "Why, that's just what we had when I was a kid . . . a parlor for mommies and another room for family living."

Well, the living room needn't be an unused parlor . . . but the family room does take a tremendous burden off the living room. Placed close to the kitchen, it's wonderful to order in the youngster's activities, where mom and dad can keep an eye on them. It's fine for hobbies, television and many other family activities.

The family room tends to be an informal room, and it should be furnished in that mood. Bright cheerful colors are fine here. Fabrics and furnishings that don't demand delicate care should be chosen. Hard-surface floors, or readily cleaned area rugs are practical.

Be sure you plan storage for your family room, where toys, hobby equipment and the like can be stored away. And, of course, a family eating area.

Our displays feature a host of ideas for the most formal or informal living areas of your home. We'll be glad to help you plan your selections, for quality and beauty within your budget.

Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Life Passed Dad By

Dear Ann Landers: Will you do me a special favor and print two letters from me in your column? The first I wrote to my husband 15 years ago and kept a copy of. The second is mailed to him last night. Thank you for your special consideration.

R.L.
Date: August 1, 1960

Dear Jack: For what seems like the millionth time I walked into the house tonight and you are not here. You aren't out fooling around. You are at work on the night shift.

I never wanted you to take that shift and we argued about it. You thought it was well worth the extra money. I told you I didn't care about the money, that I'd rather have a normal family life. But I lost the battle.

FOR TUESDAY
OCT. 21, 1973

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Your financial prospects are far brighter today than they were yesterday. If you're enterprising, a profit is likely.

TAURUS (April 20-May 18)
You're making a very favorable impression today on persons you come in contact with, especially those of the opposite sex.

GEMINI (May 21-June 18)
Someone who thinks quite highly of you will be busy behind the scenes, pulling strings for your benefit today.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You tend to stand out in a crowd today. Compliments from others are likely, as well as a surprise invitation to a fun event.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Things will go very smoothly for you today in an area where you recently experienced a problem. Move quickly while conditions favor you.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
Your charm and sense of humor will win allies today. The results you seek can be achieved through "soft sell."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22)
This is a favorable day for you where joint ventures or shared interests are concerned. Make them your priority projects.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22)
Let your heart rule your head today in decisions affecting one you love. The other party would do the same if roles were reversed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
There's opportunity about you today regarding your work or career. Take time for pleasantries — with the boss, if possible.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Someone who has admired you from a distance may be getting in touch today. It's one you've been hoping to hear from.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
You have a little luck tucked away that you can bank on today. It will come into play if you find yourself in a rough spot.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
It's a good day to work on creative or artistic projects. The end results should be exceptionally pleasing.

Jim: "We have had quite a few questions about the so-called short club. You were one of the inventors weren't you?"

Oswald: "Probably the inventor. Way back in 1933 or 1934 I suggested that a hand such as North's be opened one club rather than one spade. That club bid was a general utility bid. It guaranteed at least three clubs to an honor and partner was supposed to assume we held four. It was in no sense a forcing bid and just never seemed to get us into trouble."

Jim: "I see you have picked a hand which shows the bid at its best. The club opening enables North and South to get to a nice comfortable two hearts. Careful play brings the contract home with an overtrick."

Oswald: "If North opens one spade South resounds one notrump. The hand plays there and South will probably make one notrump."

Jim: "There is a lot of difference between three hearts and one notrump in a match point game and that 50 points is worth something in rubber bridge. Incidentally, if West tries to compete with a three-diamond bid he is likely to be set three tricks doubled."

ASK the Jacobys

An Ohio reader wants to know what we respond to partner's one-heart opening bid with:

♦ 7 6 ♦ K 5 2 ♦ A Q 8 6 ♦ J 7 5 3.

This is a clearcut hand for an immediate raise up to two hearts, playing standard American, Jacoby modern or any regular system. If partner only holds four hearts he knows it.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Symphony Broadcast Tonight

BERRIEN SPRINGS — WAUS, the Andrews university FM station, will broadcast Twin Cities Symphony's opening concert of Oct. 12 on "Concert Variations," a program which will be heard tonight from 9 to 10 p.m. In addition to the Twin Cities formed.

On Oct. 27, Dr. Hall will preview the Nov. 9 opening concert of the Elkhart Symphony in an interview with the symphony director, Zigmund Gaska.

The previews will be aired from 8 to 10 p.m. on Mondays preceding concerts. WAUS will also broadcast all major concerts of the Twin Cities Symphony on the same program.

Hust for the program will be Dr. C.J. Hall, AU associate professor of music theory and composition. He will interview the conductors about composers and compositions and will play excerpts of works to be performed.

A preview of the Nov. 18 Twin Cities Symphony concert will be broadcast Nov. 10.

Previews will continue through May and may be continued next season, according to Hall.

WAUS broadcasts on 90.9 FM.

UFW Marchers Protest Arrests

DETROIT (AP) — About 100 United Farm Workers Union supporters marched a mile through the city Sunday to protest the arrests of 20 picketers Saturday.

Those arrested were to appear in court today after being charged with disorderly conduct.

TAPPED: Jose Lopez Portillo, has been nominated by his country's governing Institutional Revolutionary Party to be Mexico's next president. Portillo says his government will make peace with private business in order to spur the sagging national economy. (AP Wirephoto)

Clocks To Change Saturday

Michigan will move to standard time next Sunday, meaning clocks should be set back an hour before going to bed Saturday night.

The switch will mean more daylight in the mornings and less in the evenings.

Next Sunday, the first day of standard time, the sun will set at 5:35 p.m. EST. It will rise at 7:58 a.m.

The state has been on daylight savings time since April 27. Most of Michigan is in the Eastern time zone, but the four western Upper Peninsula counties are in the Central time zone.

Those four counties — Gogebic, Iron, Dickinson and Menominee — will remain one hour behind the rest of the state.

The four will revert to Central Standard Time by moving clocks back one hour at the same time the rest of Michigan moves to Eastern Standard Time.

SUTHERLAND, Neb. (AP) — "My first thought was, my God! — what happened?"

June Lindstrom, an ambulance attendant, was one of the first to discover the bloody scene where six members of the Henery Kellie family were shot to death Saturday night in a tiny frame house.

She also was the victims' friend. She had assisted in delivery of one of them — 10-year-old Florence — when the child was born.

Mrs. Lindstrom said she found David Kellie, 32, lying on the floor with the body of his 5-year-old son, Daniel, draped over him. The body of his 6-year-old daughter, Deanne, was crumpled in the corner, like she was hiding."

David's parents, 66-year-old Henery and 57-year-old Marie, also were found dead in their frame house where their divorced son and his two children had arrived earlier for an evening meal as was their custom.

Florence, who had been living with her grandparents since the death of her mother several years ago in an auto accident — was found in another room of the five-room house.

Mrs. Lindstrom said she knew David was still alive. "I looked over into the mass of blood and there were bubbles coming out."

David apparently called the police before he died. Floyd Paulman, who was duty in the town marshall's office when the call came in — said he recognized David's voice.

Paulman said David, a close friend of his, told him "We need an ambulance."

Sunday morning Erwin Charles Simants, 29, was arrested and charged with killing the Kellies. Mrs. Lindstrom described him as a "hthead" and "troublemaker."

New York Mayor Begging To Avoid Closing Up City

By MIKE WATERS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — With President Ford spurning New York City's request for financial aid, the city is turning to Congress for help to stave off financial default.

In the House, an economic stabilization subcommittee starts hearings today into the city's financial woes with Mayor Abraham Beame as its first witness. Beame will be followed later in the week by New York Gov. Hugh Carey and Federal Reserve Board Chairman

Arthur F. Burns.

Beame said Sunday that even if New York City defaulted, and thereby was spared from paying interest on its debts, the city would still be $1 billion short of the cash needed to meet payrolls from December to March.

"We'd have to close up the city," he said on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said the needed money could come if New York State imposed a new 2 or 3 per cent sales tax throughout the state.

Proxmire says he now believes federal help is needed if the city is to regain access to credit through the bond market. But Proxmire conceded that any congressional action to help the city is going to be a "close thing" because of the Ford administration's opposition.

During the hearing Saturday, Beame and a panel of New York City's leading bankers said federal help is needed or the city will default in a few months.

"There can no longer be any doubt; without appropriate federal assistance, the City of New York will default by the end of the year, triggering national and international consequences that will touch the lives of every American," Beame said.

Beame said all he wants from Congress is time.

"Through a federal loan guarantee, you can help us maintain a line of credit until we can re-enter the money markets," he said.

Some form of federal aid to the city also was urged by David Rockefeller, chairman of the board of the Chase Manhattan Bank and the brother of Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller; Ellmore C. Patterson, chairman of the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co., and Walter B. Wriston, chairman of the First City National Bank.

They said they reluctantly came to the conclusion that a federal role is inescapable if default is to be avoided."

NYC FINANCES: New York City Mayor Abraham D. Beame, left, appears Sunday in Washington on NBC's "Meet the Press" while Treasury Secretary William E. Simon gives his view of city's financial problem on ABC's "Issues and Answers". Beame said even if city defaulted and was thereby spared from paying interest on its debts, it would still be $1 billion short of cash needed to meet payrolls from December to March. (AP Wirephoto)

Coloma Fire Department Starting Dystrophy Drive

COLOMA — Coloma Fire Chief Leonard Dolecan has announced the appointment of firefighter Rudy Appel to head the Coloma department's annual March for Muscular Dystrophy starting today and running through Nov. 3.

Appel stated that he would be contacting Coloma businesses and urging their continued support of the department's effort. He also stated that the department had taken part in 21 previous Dystrophy drives and had raised a total of $12,876 since 1964, when area Dystrophy drives started.

In accepting the appointment as chairman, Appel expressed hope that the residents of Coloma would continue their support of the department's effort.

Authorities said Donald M.

She's Combination Guide, 'Mother Hen' At Capitol

By PATRICK CONNOLLY

Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Garbed in dress blues, Lillie Lester takes her job as state House assistant sergeant-at-arms seriously.

The 30-ish black woman from Detroit is believed to be the first female appointed to such a post in the nation. She directs tourists to the galleries, rotunda and restrooms, sends written messages from visitors and lobbyists to legislators during session and generally helps keep order and decorum in the House chambers.

She got the job in 1964 and sees herself as somewhat of a political prophet in addition to a uniformed mother hen to lawmakers and visitors.

"People seem to call upon me for help in the community ... God is good to me. How can you tell when you are doing too much for people when you feel that there is a need?" she says. "When she's not working in the Capitol, Mrs. Lester immerses herself in community affairs and local politics. She is an eighth

District precinct delegate in Detroit.

"A couple of years ago I was sitting outside the House

chambers when I had a vision that then-R. William

Froehle was going to become the next governor. I went up to him and told him he would have a different station in life and today he is the 17th U.S. District Congressman," she says.

Nuclear Danger Coverup Charged

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — A critic says the Atomic Energy Commission suppressed data on the dangers of nuclear reactors because it feared a possible court-ordered halt to reactor construction could result. Daniel Ford, director of the anti-nuclear Union of Concerned Scientists, made the allegation at a day-long conference on nuclear power at the University of Michigan.

Dr. Dixie Lee Ray, former head of the AEC, said Ford misrepresented the facts, but she refused to debate Ford at the conference, which ended Friday night. Ford said the AEC shelved a study by its own staff for seven years because it stated a reactor accident could kill up to 45,000 persons and spread contamination over an area the size of Pennsylvania.

JOHN P. ROCHE A Word Edgerton

Nobody has yet cleared up the mystery of the 200 American technicians in the Sinai. Since they are to be evacuated the minute any trouble starts, they cannot be considered hostages sent to guarantee an American commitment to Israel's defense. They might as well be Fins or Indonesians, but Jerusalem insisted on Americans and refused to sign the agreement until Congress completed the necessary authorization. All of which leads back to my previous suggestion that the American

Colson: 'We Are Marked...'

BUSHNELL, Fla. (AP) — Convicted Watergate figure Charles Colson, who is campaigning for prison reform, has earned prisoners here not to expect to be accepted back in society upon their release. "We are marked men," the former White House special counsel told about 50 inmates Sunday at Florida's Sumter Correctional Institute. "Society is not forgiving. Society is going to turn its back on you."

technicians provided Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin with a fig leaf, an essentially flaccid ground for accepting the Kissinger program Israel rejected last spring.

In an event, now that all the talking is over, let us ask the key question: Who did what to whom? First of all, Israel did get delivery of military equipment. We have also guaranteed to replace the oil — 80 percent of Israel's consumption — from the oilfields returned to Egypt.

Beyond these fairly solid commitments, Secretary Kissinger went off into the conditional-subjective lense or what we might consider consulting Israel about in the event of another crisis — that is, if Congress is agreeable and the Pentagon optimistic.

To put the matter in plain language, the American commitment to Israel, which has always been based on "understandings," is today weaker than it has been since the establishment of the Jewish state in 1948.

The American Jewish community still seems to be in a trance, but the "Christian Science Monitor," never known for its fondness towards Israel, got the signal. On Oct. 9 its lead editorial stated: "The congressional flap over the Sinai accord . . . is of great significance. It is a clear and unmistakable indication that henceforth Congress . . . will not give Israel an automatic, opened ended commitment of support."

Faced by Kissinger's artistry with mirrors, and his mastery of the hemi-semi-demi "hard" promise, Israel's American friends seem dumbstruck. I suggest, before they join the chorus, they demand straight answers to two questions: 1) In the event of another war what will we do besides "consult"? and 2) In the event we do plan to move beyond consultations, do we have the capability, say, to supply the Israeli Defense Force with the necessary oil? Israel's survival cannot be based on abstractions.

Med Students Fight Tuition Hike

By TANYA KESSEGEOR

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many medical educators are watching an unusual court case brought by a group of medical students here who are suing their school to block escalating tuition, a national affliction in health education.

Six medical students filed a class action lawsuit in District of Columbia Superior Court in mid-August on behalf of 240 of their classmates who have contributed to lawyers' fees. A decision in the case is expected soon.

The students base their claim on an alleged breach of contract arising from statements in the school catalog which they say promised only a $200 annual increase in tuition through 1978.

Instead, tuition at George Washington University medical school has jumped $1,800, or 56 per cent, to $5,000 annually in the past year and could more than double again by 1976-77 to $12,500 a year.

Lawyers for the medical school argue that the statement in the catalog was "merely a statement of intention" rather than a binding legal obligation. The students' lawyers say the catalog's use of the word "estimate" "signifies more than a mere guess or conjecture."

At any rate, the school later changed that part of the catalog dealing with future tuition. The catalog now says administrators are "unable to predict what tuition will be in future years."

From the school's point of view, the case bears on whether tuition may be again increased. When the school's trustees last January approved the $1,800 tuition hike for 1975-76, school officials issued a statement saying a hike to $12,500 would be necessary next year because of inflation, faculty salaries and the possible loss of federal funds.

Paul Epstein, a second-year medical student at George Washington and coordinator of the dissenting students, says, "At the projected tuition levels, many students will have to drop out of medical school and maybe out of medicine, since they'll have a hard time transferring to other medical schools."

Ringing Burglar Alarm Backfires On Auto's Owner

A ringing burglar alarm in a car led state police of the Benton Harbor post to an auto and the arrest of its owner on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Troopers Gary Truskowski and Ronald Olson said they were driving in Benton Harbor about 1:30 a.m. today when they heard an alarm in the 300 block of East Main street.

They investigated and arrested Will Moore, 31, of 1282 Ogden avenue, Benton Harbor. A .25 caliber automatic pistol was confiscated.

Troopers said the burglar alarm apparently sounded when a door of the car was opened.

Troopers Sunday night arrested Frank C. Teubo, 21, Gladwin, on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon after stopping to assist him with his stalled auto on I-94 in Lincoln township. A .38 caliber derringer was confiscated at Teubo was booked at the county jail.

A Benton township man was arrested by Benton Harbor police Sunday on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. Booked at the Berrien county jail was John Henry Dillon, 28, of 180 Crystal court. He was arrested about 8 p.m. in the 300 block of Territorial road after police received a tip about a man with a gun. A .32 caliber revolver was confiscated, police said.

Two women reported to Benton township and Benton Harbor police that their purses were snatched by two men Saturday night.

The strong-armed robbery occurred about an hour apart. There appeared to be no connection, but the victims were unable to provide complete descriptions of the robbers.

Rebecca Sunberg, 43, told Benton Harbor police her purse containing $100 cash was seized by two men about 10:30 p.m. Saturday night outside the Michigan hotel, 115 Water street, where she lives. She was not injured.

Jane Warner, 18, Milner Motor hotel, Benton Harbor, told Benton township police her purse containing $80 was snatched by two men about 11:30 on Chicago avenue near Burton street in the township. She said she was punched on the face and stomach but was not injured seriously. The same two had earlier attempted to grab her purse on East Main street, but she fled, she told police.

Autopsy Results Pending

NILES — State police here reported that no decision has been made on whether the Friday death of a Niles woman injured in a Sept. 19, auto crash will be counted as traffic fatality.

Mrs. Viola Schlosser, 66, of Niles, died Friday morning at Pawtaway hospital, here. She had been a patient at the hospital since sustaining injuries in a traffic accident in Berrien township.

Troopers said an autopsy was conducted Saturday by Dr. John Bruni, Berrien county deputy medical examiner, but results of the examination are still pending. Police said a final ruling on the death awaits further tests and could be as long as six weeks away.

Funeral services for Mrs. Schlosser were scheduled to be held today at the Haibert funeral home, Niles.

BERRIGAN IN COURT
EAST HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Anti-war activist Philip Berrigan and 21 other persons were scheduled to enter pleas today in connection with the spray-painting of military airplane at an aircraft show.

Dedication Ceremony Marks Addition To SMC Campus

DOWAGIAC — Dedication ceremonies for the 80-acre tract of land bequeathed to Southwestern Michigan college by the late Everett M. Claspy of Dowagiac were held yesterday at the SMC campus. A dedication plaque was unveiled which will be permanently erected at the corner of Mathews and Dailey roads, one of the few open areas in the 80-acre oak, hickory, maple and cherry forest. The tract, which increases the size of the SMC campus from 158 to 238 acres, will be used for nature and jogging trails, and forestry, agricultural and biology studies.

Infant Dies After Falling Into Bucket

DOUGLAS — A 15-month-old baby girl died Saturday in Holland City hospital from injuries suffered when she reportedly fell head first into a bucket of water at her home Friday.

Sundra Kay Wright, daughter of Mrs. Carol Wright, 6313 134th avenue, died at 4:40 p.m. Saturday, hospital officials reported.

Allegan sheriff's deputies, who reported the baby girl died from the injuries, said they were called to the Wright home about 1 p.m. Friday after Mrs.

Wright reported her daughter had been injured when she fell into a bucket of water under the kitchen sink.

Douglas Police Chief Embert Giles applied mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, deputies said, and the child was taken to City hospital after resuming breathing.

The accident is still under investigation, according to deputies.

Funeral arrangements for the child are being handled by the Dykstra Funeral home, Saugatuck chapel.

Friends reported to state police from the Benton Harbor post were:

—A citizens band radio, valued at $120 from a pickup truck owned by Floyd Johnson, Alief, Tex., and a CB radio, valued at $140, from the auto of Roger Holstrom of Normal, Ill. Thefts occurred in the parking lot of Holiday Inn, M-180, Benton township.

Police said Mrs. West was a passenger in an auto driven by her husband, Carl, 54, which was involved in a crash with a car driven by Robert Sausman Jr., 20, Columbia City, Ind., at the intersection of Red Bud Trail and Shawnee road.

West was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way, police said.

TWO-CAR ACCIDENT

Milliken, Lawmakers Seek Painless Cuts

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State lawmakers begin grappling with the state's budget problems this week as Democratic leaders meet with Republican Gov. Milliken's budget experts to try to find where spending can be cut most painlessly.

Little action of any consequence is expected to take place on the floor of either the House or Senate. Legislators, who returned from a two-month vacation last week, are still reviewing bills committed with an eye toward action on some major legislation within a week or two.

Among the items expected to start moving toward the floor soon are bills on land-use, workers' compensation and consumer protection. But it promises to be a long and rocky road toward a vote for any of those controversial issues.

Meanwhile, most of the real action will be secret. First, leaders of both chambers, including appropriations committee chieftains, will huddle with state budget officials to talk about budget cuts. The governor is expected to issue late this week or next week an order trimming state spending by more than $100 million.

Democratic leaders want to discuss the matter before the order is issued, because the Senate and House appropriations committees must approve it or reject it — but cannot change it. Thus, says House Speaker Bobby Crim, D-Davison, it is likely the first order will be rejected to force some compromise on where the spending cuts will come.

Crim said it would "take two or three weeks" to hammer out an order acceptable to majority Democrats.

In separate — but related — action, Democrats will huddle among themselves to decide once and for all whether to attempt to override several gubernatorial vetoes in the recently-passed budget. While there appears to be considerable desire to override some vetoes — especially the mixing of $211,000 for an optometry school at Ferris State College — lawmakers realize that such action is inconsistent with trimming the budget.

"The odds have shifted on overriding, and they're slimmer than they were," said House Minority Leader Dennis Cawthon, R-Manistee. "There is a growing realization on both sides of the aisle that there is a tremendous contradiction in approving a school of optometry when we're facing a $100 million deficit."

Such talk indicates the Democrats feel they don't yet have the two thirds vote necessary in both houses to override any vetoes.

William Fitzgerald, D-Detroit, said he's "reserving the right to proceed" on an override attempt. But both he and Crim talked about using the threat to bargain with Milliken over budget cuts and possibly restoring some of the money through new legislation.

Such talk indicates the Democrats feel they don't yet have the two thirds vote necessary in both houses to override any vetoes.

Gast: Motor City Asking Another Favor Of State

EDITOR'S NOTE: State Rep. Harry Gast (R-St. Joseph) in this article states his opposition to a bill that would permit the City of Detroit to raise the income tax rate on non-residents who work in the city.

By HARRY GAST
In the first few days of the fall legislative session, considerable debate has been devoted to a bill that would allow the City of Detroit to tax non-resident workers to a greater extent than they are now being taxed.

The bill (House Bill 5329) calls for an increase in the non-resident income tax rate, from one half percent to one per cent, for cities of a million population. Detroit residents currently pay a two per cent tax. Detroit is the only city in Michigan that has a population of one million.

Because of Detroit's financial crisis, the city wants to double the rate by which it taxes people who work in Detroit, but do not live there.

Supporters of the bill claim that suburbanites use Detroit as a place to earn their living, but only pay a half per cent of their personal income to support city services there.

Opponents argue that much reverse commuting exists where Detroit residents work in the suburbs and contribute nothing towards supporting the services provided by the suburban communities.

Still others claim that the one million population requirement should be deleted and every city which imposes a personal income tax should have the ability to tax non-residents to a greater degree.

During the debate on this issue, several House members pointed out that Detroit has received favorable treatment from the state on many fronts. For example, the local revenue sharing formula, adopted by the Legislature last summer, favors Detroit.

Other measures approved by the Legislature have given money to Detroit that is not available to any other community in Michigan.

I realize that Detroit has money problems. But I question how much farther the state should go to help Detroit when their own efforts are so obviously lacking.

With the state's financial position critical at this time, I certainly hope the legislature will insist that Detroit take immediate action to avert a duplication of New York City's problems.

As an example, a Detroit police patrolman receives $3,000 more salary per year than a state police trooper. A Detroit police sergeant receives $4,577 more than a state police sergeant.

I cite this example because in Detroit's firemen, school teachers and refuse handlers are also the highest paid in the state. Fringe benefits and pensions are equal to or better than any other governmental unit.

I strongly oppose our tax dollars supporting programs and salaries we cannot afford in our own communities.

Veteran Enrollment Is Up 58 Per Cent At SMC This Fall

DOWAGIAC — Approximately 58 per cent more veterans are attending Southwestern Michigan college this fall, compared to last fall, according to SMC President Russell M. Owen.

Preliminary enrollment figures show 313 veterans enrolled in credit courses make up about one-fifth of the total fall enrollment in such classes. Last fall, 197 veterans were enrolled in SMC credit courses.

Area veterans are reminded that SMC provides information about procedures for applying for Vietnam-era bonuses, information on veterans' educational benefits, and loans." Timothy Ferry, SMC veterans' affairs officer, said.

The Instant It Happened*DEATH IN DALLAS

Bob Jackson, photographer of the Dallas Times-Herald, was 11 feet away when Jack Ruby lunged out at Lee Harvey Oswald.

"Originally I was assigned to cover the Oswald transfer to the county jail and then to go out to Parkland Hospital for a press conference with the wife of the governor. But the transfer was delayed and it was now clear I couldn't cover both events. The desk said, 'Forget Oswald and get to the hospital.' I argued, 'I said there had been a lot of talk, something might happen.'

"Oswald appeared; I raised my camera and became aware of someone moving out of the crowd. He took three steps, I pressed the button. I was not aware of what was happening until I heard the shot. I quickly took another picture as people swarmed over Ruby. But the strobe unit didn't work; it hadn't had enough time to recycle."

"I kept worrying about the first picture. Had I pressed the button too soon? It was nearly two hours before I was relieved at the jail and got back to the office and developed the picture. It was not too soon."

Israeli Hospital Awakens At Last

By GARY PUTKA

JERUSALEM (AP) — A hospital the Israelis have nicknamed Rip van Winkle awakens Tuesday after a 27-year slumber.

A ceremony marking the event will be attended by Israeli officials and many of the American women who made it possible.

The Hadassah University Hospital was built in 1939 on Mt. Scopus in Arab East Jerusalem and got its nickname after it was cut off and isolated in the Jordanian sector of the Holy City from the time of the 1948 Arab-Israeli war until the six-day Middle East war of 1967.

After Israeli paratroopers captured the old city, the Hadassah American women's organization vowed to restore the neglected, run-down hospital and pledged $40 million for the purpose. The first part of the project has now been completed.

Jacov Rechter, a prize-winning Israeli architect, was awarded the restoration project, with one major stipulation: the hospital's exterior must be preserved.

"We were faced with a very unusual human phenomenon, what we may call a Rip van Winkle hospital," he said.

"The simplest thing would have been to tear the old building down and begin again. I think it was ... correct to preserve it."

Rechter solved the space problem by going underground, building a new world of wards, rooms and tunnels."

The new hospital, whose more than 300 beds will be open to both Arab and Jew, will operate on a new medical concept, says Kalman Mann, director of Hadassah's medical arm. It will provide continuous care and treatment of patients before, during and after admission.

Family physicians, operating through an internal medicine department, will treat the patients living in and around Jerusalem, coordinating their work with other health services and hospitals. Medical students, clinical psychologists, social workers and vocational training experts also will be involved in the omnibus health program.

"Our aims embrace the total health of the community, involving problems that are not only physical, but psychological and social in content," Mann said.

Hadassah has experience in this field. Since 1900, it has operated Israel's largest hospital, in cooperation with Hebrew University, in West Jerusalem.

One special feature of the new Mt. Scopus hospital will be a new 46-foot-high statue, "The Tree of Life," designed by the late Jacques Lipchitz.

person is exposed to a tractor noise output of 95 dB all day."

According federal guidelines, a person can withstand noise without a risk of ear damage as follows: less than 85 dB, 16 hours or more; 90 dB, eight to nine hours; 95 dB, four hours and 100 dB, just two hours.

Typical decibel levels for farm machinery include 110 dB for a corn picker on a medium sized tractor; 105 dB for a large combine; and 99 dB for a fan drying system.

MSU tests, Pfister says, indicate that operators of 1970-1974 tractor models without cabs may sustain excessive hearing loss in two to four hours of continuous operation unless ear protection is worn.

"Ear protection is needed even more when running most older models that have an output of 100 dB at the point where the operator sits," Pfister says.

Under federal regulations such equipment should not be operated more than an hour or two daily without ear plugs or muffs."

New tractors with cabs can be operated up to 16 hours a day without risk of hearing loss, he says, although air conditioning may be needed to avoid opening the cab for ventilation, thus letting in more noise.

If noise can't be cut, Pfister says, protection must be worn. Ear muffs will allow enough sound for safety purposes, while ear plugs must be made to fit properly and kept clean to avoid infection.

Toxins Still Being Stored

EDGEWOOD, Md. (AP) — Despite a 1970 presidential order to dispose of all deadly toxins developed in biological warfare research, Army officials have confirmed they are storing eight toxin samples "to serve defense weapons systems."

An Army spokesman said over the weekend the six samples stored here at the Edgewood Arsenal and two at Dugway Proving Grounds in Utah were not covered by then-President Richard M. Nixon's order because the order was directed at offensive biological warfare materials.

U.S. Economic Climb Underway?

WASHINGTON (AP) — A jump in the gross national product is expected to lead into a long, steady climb by the U.S. economy back toward the level of activity from which it fell nearly two years ago, administration economists say.

The gross national product (GNP) figures due out today apparently were the "encouraging economic statistics" that President Ford said last week were on the way.

The GNP figures for the third quarter were expected to show an advance rivaling the 10.1 per cent growth at an annual rate in the first three months of 1971.

And just as that 1971 surge in gross national product was followed by a lower rate of growth — 2.8 per cent for two consecutive quarterly periods — administration economists are already predicting a similar course for the current recovery.

Within days after Ford's optimistic statement, James L. Pate, assistant secretary for economic affairs at the Commerce Department, estimated the GNP increase would be in the 9 per cent to 10 per cent range.

The volume of GNP, the dollar value adjusted to account for inflation, rose at an annual rate of 1.9 per cent in the April-June quarter. Prior to that revival, GNP volume had dropped 7.7 per cent over 15 months, marking the deepest recession since the 1930s.

Inventory liquidation is the process of selling off raw materials and finished goods held in warehouses and showrooms. Despite constant demand for goods and services production nosedives when business is filling orders from inventory, then swings upward sharply at the point where business leaders decide to begin restocking. The restocking means factories are kept busy filling empty shelves and warehouse space while also filling orders.

The latest monthly government figures showed that the restocking began at the wholesale and retail level in August, with manufacturers apparently poised to follow suit.

Pate had said earlier the administration still expects the current recovery to be moderate-to-strong.

He noted that industrial production, for example, climbed 5.7 per cent in the first five months of the recovery.

VA Probe Nearing End

DETROIT (AP) — The FBI probe into a series of mysterious breathing failures at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Ann Arbor may be nearing completion, the Detroit News reported Sunday.

The newspaper quoted a source close to the investigation as saying, "We think the FBI has several key suspects in mind, but are still coming to the hospital questioning other people."

It has been over two months since federal agents began investigating the respiratory arrests after hospital officials became convinced a powerful drug was being injected into patients.

At one time, at least 25 agents were stationed at the VA facility to conduct interviews with over 200 employees. Only two FBI agents were at work in the hospital last Friday, the News' sources said.

To date, no arrests have been made in the case.

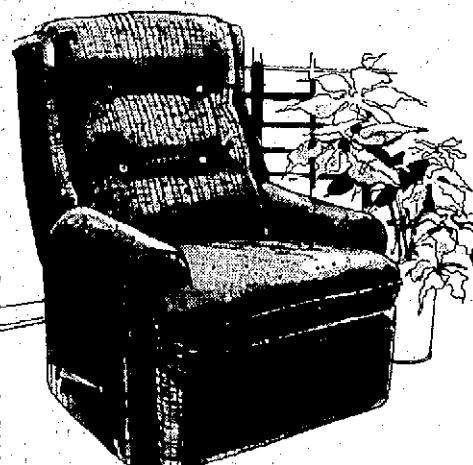

The hospital recorded 56 cardiac and breathing arrests between July 1 and Aug. 15. Nineteen of those patients died.

However, hospital officials contend only 15 of the respiratory arrests were of a suspicious nature. Of those, five patients died. Only one death was a suspicious, hospital sources said.

NEW SHOW: Comedians Dan Rowan, left, and Dick Martin clown as a promotion for their upcoming new TV series. Program will be weekly review of news by the veteran comedy team on ABC. (AP Wirephoto)

Rowan & Martin To Review News

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Is the nation ready for a weekly Rowan and Martin review of the news? Rowan and Martin think so, ABC heartily agrees, and the network will present the pilot show Nov. 5.

"Two years ago we couldn't have done a show like this," says Dick Martin, the basset-faced zany of the comedy team. "Watergate was still going on, and people were too uptight to laugh at the news."

"Now the timing is just right," agrees Dan Rowan, the smooth straight man. "We're coming into an election year, the Fords are doing things you can make jokes about, and the Democrats are funnier than ever."

The Rowan and Martin Report! next month will set the pattern for a series expected to reach the ABC network in January. Both critics and producer Paul Keyes declare it will be unlike anything television has ever seen before.

Does that sound like show biz hyperbole? Perhaps. But eight years ago all three were saying the same thing about their new show "Laugh-In" and their prediction turned out to be true.

"When we went on the air with 'Laugh-In,' critics tried to compare it to early Ernie Kovacs, 'Heilzapoppin' or whatever, but it bore no relationship to anything that went before," says Martin. "Nor will the new show."

Rowan, Martin and Keyes bristled at the suggestion their show might resemble "That Was The Week That Was."

Today In History

By Associated Press
Today is Monday, Oct. 20, the 293rd day of 1975. There are 72 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1918, Germany accepted U.S. terms to end World War I and ordered German submarines to their home bases.

On this date:

In 1740, Maria Theresa became ruler of Austria, Hungary and Bohemia.

In 1873, the showman, P.T. Barnum, opened the Hippodrome in New York City.

One year ago: Young antigovernment demonstrators in Saigon overran police barricades and stoned the National Assembly building.

Today's birthdays: Former baseball star Mickey Mantle is 44 years old. Actor Jerry Orbach is 40.

Thought for today: Hosts don't mind their guests' shortcomings, nearly as much as their long stayings — anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the Massachusetts House of Representatives in Watertown appropriated 1,000 pounds to buy winter stores for the poor who had been forced to flee Boston and Charlestown early in the American Revolution.

Court Pondering Karen's Right To Die

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Karen Ann Quinlan's life could depend on the outcome of a court debate today over whether she can be disconnected from a respirator that has kept her breathing since she lapsed into a coma six months ago.

Everyone agrees that Karen is alive. But her parents say she should be disconnected from the respirator and allowed to die; the state says this could be considered homicide, and the hospital finds itself caught between medical ethics and the law.

Miss Quinlan, 21, has been in a coma since last April, when she apparently ingested by accident a dangerous combination of alcohol and tranquilizers. She has been hospitalized in the intensive care ward of St. Clare's with no apparent hope of recovery and a mechanical respirator to help keep her alive.

The issues are complex and likely to have national implications on a problem that has usually been worked out in private if at all.

Even the central issue — that she would die after her respirator is turned off — has become clouded. Some of the briefs filed in the case say she would die almost immediately, but others quote doctors who say the young woman might resume breathing under her own power if the respirator is turned off.

The case skirts the issue of the definition of "death," because doctors say that she is alive by all medical standards — including brain activity as shown on an electronic monitoring device.

So it centers on the issue of and an individual's right to die — as Karen's parents put it — with dignity.

The case was to be argued before Superior Court Judge Robert Muir, Jr. The parties in the case include her adoptive father, Joseph T. Quinlan and his attorney, Paul W. Armstrong; New Jersey Atty. Gen. William F. Hyland and Morris County Prosecutor Donald G. Collester; and Daniel R. Coburn, represented by the court to represent Miss Quinlan.

The parent's petition filed last month seeks to have the attorney general and prosecutor enjoined from bringing criminal charges against the plaintiffs, the doctors or the hospital, should permission be given to shut off the respirator that has been keeping his daughter alive.

The attorney general and county prosecutor filed briefs opposing the parents' request.

because state law says causing a death, mercifully or not, is homicide, which the government is obliged to prosecute.

Armstrong, a Morristown attorney representing the Quinlan family, filed a pretrial brief citing recent court decisions that have given individuals the right to determine their own course of medical treatment, even if it hastens death.

A Florida court ruled in 1971 that a woman could refuse certain medical treatment because it "would only result in the painful extension of her life for a short period of time" and that she should not be kept alive against her will.

Because Miss Quinlan is comatose and therefore mentally incompetent, the court is being asked to let her father make such a decision for her based on his knowledge of her wishes and his estimation of what is in her best interest.

Rain Clouds Continue To Hang Over World Series

BOSTON (AP) — Johnny Bench dislikes playing the World Series at night, but at this stage of the game, he'll take the World Series anytime.

The fall classic was postponed for the second day in a row Sunday and the prospect for another rainout clouded the air as the Cincinnati Reds and the Boston Red Sox prepared for the sixth game tonight.

"I don't think any World Series game should be played at night," said Bench, Cincinnati's All-Star catcher. "I don't think you'll see the best performances from the players. Baseball should be played in the daytime, in sunshine preferably."

This hasn't been the set for the "Sunshine Boys" around here for some time. Last weekend, it rained during the second game of the Series, but they managed somehow to play between the raindrops.

After the Reds took a 3-2 lead in Cincinnati, the team came back to Boston for Game No. 6 and were stopped cold by a "Nor'easter" — a long-winded storm typical for the New England area.

That troublesome storm was expected to linger through today, perhaps causing another postponement. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn who rescheduled the sixth game for 8:30 p.m. EDT tonight, said he wasn't "very optimistic" about playing it.

While everyone talked about the weather Sunday, the Reds did something about it. They took their road show indoors and worked out at a cage on the campus of Tufts University, just outside Boston.

There, Manager Sparky Anderson announced that he was changing his starting pitcher for Game No. 6.

"It will be Gary Nolan instead of Jack Billingham," Anderson said. "Nolan hasn't relieved all year and he's rested. Billingham has some experience as a relief pitcher.

I'll have him and Fred Norman up early in the bullpen and I'll use them depending on the situation."

Anderson is saving his best for last. In other words, Don Gullett will pitch the seventh game, if another game is needed.

The rain not only served to change Anderson's pitching plans — but also those of Boston Manager Darrell Johnson. He was going to use Bill Lee on Sunday, but the extra day's rest made Luis Tiant the logical choice to save the Red Sox from extinction.

Lee is usually philosophical, was anything out that after he was pulled off the prestigious starting assignment for Boston's "must-win" game.

"I disagree with the manager's decision," said the outspoken left-hander. "I think it would be better to save Luis for the seventh game and let him go against their left-hander. Don Gullett. However, Luis is ready with the extra day of rest, so there's no sense in complaining."

Johnson defended his choice.

"With the extra day's rest, Luis is ready to pitch and I don't want to hold him back," said the Boston manager. "Lee is ready, but I think it's better to put him back. It really doesn't make much difference in the long run because we still have to win two games."

The Red Sox had no formal workout Sunday, but a handful of Boston players did go through light drills in a section underneath the stands at Fenway Park.

"Rainouts don't normally hurt us," Johnson said. "Our regulars have good individual workouts out there in center field. The only problem is that they don't see live pitching. Hitting against iron mike (the pitching machine) isn't the same."

The staging of a night game set up a peripheral drama.

Because of Kuhn's scheduling, the World Series game on NBC was pitted head-to-head with ABC's coverage of the National Football League game between the New York Giants and the Buffalo Bills. This night time baseball vs. football ratings war had not occurred before.

Asked if he "relished" the confrontation, Kuhn told reporters: "Relish is the wrong word. I don't mind it but I'm not going out of my way looking for it." Kuhn added, however, that he thought that baseball would win the ratings game.

"I'd be a little surprised if it didn't have a higher rating," the commissioner said.

Tarkenton Leads Vikings Past Lions

18 Penalties Mar Marathon Tilt

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Minnesota Coach Bud Grant called it "the longest day," but it turned out darker and longer for Detroit's optimistic boss, Rick Forzano.

"They (Detroit) did a heck of a job late in the game," said Grant after the Vikings bounced Detroit 25-19 Sunday in a key National Football Conference Central Division game for their fifth straight victory.

"I wonder if it was a record for the longest regulation game," mused Grant, after the three-hour, 15-minute struggle. "It seemed like the third quarter took forever."

Minnesota, the lone unbeaten team in the NFC nearly squandered a 25-3 lead in the final quarter of a game marred by 18 penalties.

"It was a typical Minnesota-Detroit game," said Grant. "They came at us real good and Munson hung in there despite taking a lot of hard hits all day."

Detroit quarterback Bill Munson connected on 22 of 37 passes for 212 yards, including short touchdown throws to Joe Staggers and Charlie Sanders, as he rallied the frustrated Lions in the final period.

"I think Minnesota's defense loosened up considerably," said Munson, a 12-year veteran from Utah State. "They did some things in the first half that we didn't pick up and we made some adjustments in the second half."

Detroit, now 3-2 and two games back of Minnesota in the Central Division, suffered six of its 18 penalties in the third period when the Vikings took command.

"Minnesota is a fine football team and they deserved to win," said Forzano. "But I'll tell you this—we will definitely beat their butts in Pontiac."

Forzano referred to their scheduled rematch in the Detroit suburb Dec. 14.

Minnesota kept the Lions off balance through much of the first half with Chuck Foreman knifing through on off-tackle plays for good yardage.

"They (Lions) killed Chicago last week with a bunch of safety blitzes and we decided to run against it," said Foreman, who ran for 107 yards in 22 carries. "The line knows they are doing a job when someone can get 100 yards."

Foreman said the Vikings got sloppy late in the game.

"I don't think people were concentrating as much as they could have," explained Foreman, who was held scoreless for the first time this season. "There were a lot of things going on out there."

Although the Lions safety blitz didn't affect Minnesota, the Vikings executed one of their own which resulted in a safety to give the winners a 22-3 lead late in the third period.

"I had a clear shot at Munson all the way," said rookie defensive back Autry Beaman, who dropped the Lions quarterback in the end zone. "The defensive line just took care of Detroit and Munson had nowhere to go."

Detroit took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on a 22-yard field goal by Errol Mann.

Vikings quarterback Fran Tarkenton tossed short touchdown passes to Stu Voigt and Ed Marinaro and Fred Cox kicked three field goals without a miss, in addition to the safety, as the Vikings cruised to their 25-3 bulge before Detroit could score again. Tarkenton hit on 15 of 24 passes for 148 yards and now has 16 TD passes this season.

Munson's two touchdown passes and a 43-yard field goal by Mann made it close at the finish.

'New' Michigan Powerhouse Rips Northwestern, 69-0

Big Ten's Rushing Record Equaled

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Writer

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Never in this century had Northwestern University's football team been so totally embarrassed.

And it had been nearly three decades since Michigan won such a lopsided game.

Whatever team it was that beat Stanford and Baylor in Ann Arbor earlier this year, it seems clear that it wasn't the same Wolverines who massacred Northwestern. That concern was short-lived.

time the seventh-ranked Wolverines got the ball, but it was nullified by a clipping penalty.

However, Michigan legitimately drove down the field anyway and tailback Gordon Bell plunged over from the one for the first of Michigan's 10 touchdowns.

"The scoreboard says it all. It was totally embarrassing," said Northwestern Coach John Pont. "It's one of those games you ask the Lord Judge for mercy.... We looked very shook out there."

While the Wildcats looked shook, Michigan coach Bo Schembechler said he was "really shook (sic)" his players up before the game because he was genuinely concerned about Northwestern. That concern was short-lived.

Rob Lytle, who started at fullback, moved to tailback and rushed for 105 yards, including scoring bursts of 47 and 7 yards in the second period.

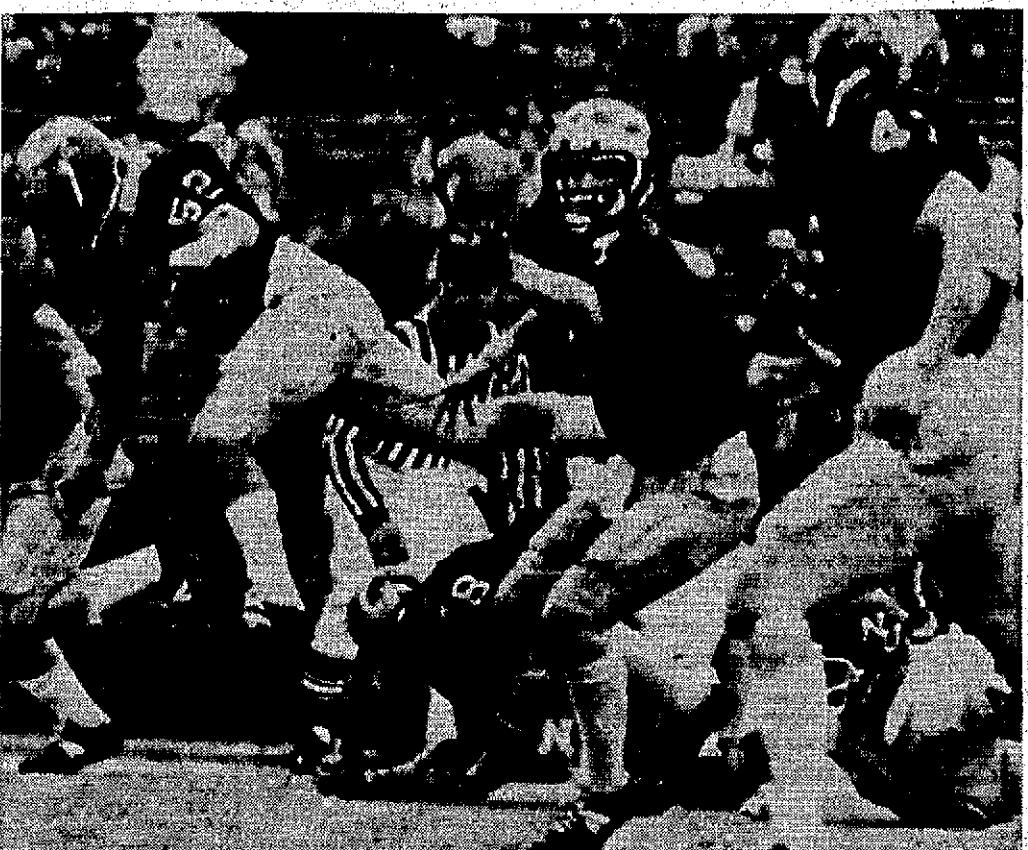

Second string quarterback Mark Elsinga hit Smith with a 20-yard scoring serial and ran for a 12-yard TD.

U-M's rushing total equaled Michigan State's 1971 league record set against Purdue. The previous Wolverine best was 42-4 against Iowa in 1968.

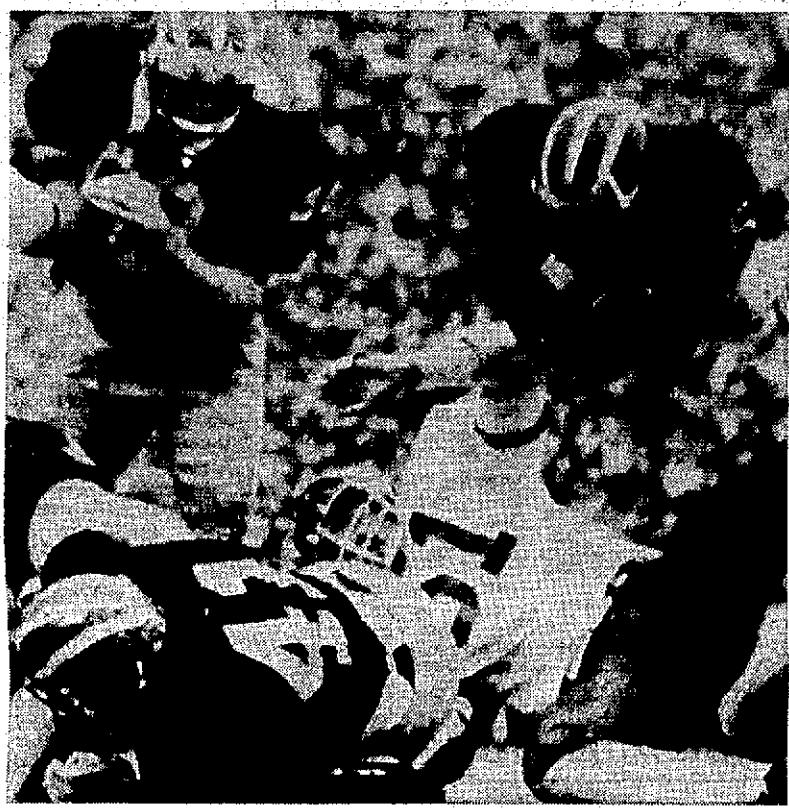

Fritz Crisler's 1947 Wolverines were the last to win by such a big margin, 69-0 against Pittsburgh. Northwestern hadn't lost so decisively since 1899 when Amos Alonzo Stagg's Chicago team blitzed the Wolverines 76-0. U-M's previous best against Northwestern was 72-6 in 1893.

Bill Runners On Display Tonight

BUFFALO (AP) — The Buffalo Bills try for their fifth straight National Football League victory tonight and they want the nation to see why they believe they should be in the Super Bowl in January.

The nationally televised game against the New York Giants will give Buffalo running backs O.J. Simpson and Jim Braxton a chance to test a Giants' defense that has made the Dallas Cowboys a headache last Sunday. Until the Cowboys mustered a late surge for a game-winning touchdown and then moved 78 yards in a 10:28 ball-control drive, the Giants' defensive unit had limited Dallas to less than 200 yards.

Simpson, with 897 yards, and Braxton, with 256 yards, have a total of 933 yards — more than half of the Bills' total offense of 1,655 yards, best in the American Conference East.

Simpson, on 118 carries, is averaging 5.8 yards per game while Braxton, a key blocker for O.J., is averaging 4.7 yards on 55 carries.

It was five turnovers that negated the Giants' defensive performance against the Cowboys.

Defensive end Jack Gregory sacked Dallas quarterback Roger Staubach twice and assisted with John Mendenhall on a third ambush.

The Buffalo defense is considered one of the strongest in the league, despite injuries that cost the Bills the services of cornerback Robert James for the season.

Coach Lou Saban was believed ready to make two defensive changes, putting Jeff Winans at

pell and spelling cornerback Charlie Ford with Frank Oliver.

Winans and Oliver were sent into last Sunday's Baltimore

Colts game and stayed in. They worked with the first team unit in practice all of last week.

Buffalo's victories have been over the New York Jets, Pittsburgh Steelers, Denver Broncos and Baltimore. The Giants, a winner over the Philadelphia

Eagles in the season-opener, have lost consecutively to Washinton, St. Louis and Dallas.

A sidelight to this battle between the Bills and Giants is the television ratings war between football and baseball.

Because of the weekend

rainouts, the sixth game of the World Series has been rescheduled for tonight.

It will be the first time that baseball, the national pastime, and its chief competitor have hooked up in the night time viewers' war.

Lakers Stop Bisons For 5th Straight Win

BY PAUL MORGAN
Staff Sports Writer

NEW BUFFALO — It wasn't exactly the kind of game one would expect when a 5-0 team takes on an 0-5 squad.

At least, for one quarter, it wasn't.

New Buffalo played Lake Michigan Catholic even-up in the initial stanza but the overall power of the state's third ranked football team prevailed for a 38-8 Red Arrow conference win over the Bisons here Saturday night.

As usual, Mickey Ashbrook helped spoil New Buffalo's Homecoming as the senior running back gained 208 yards on 38 carries for the Lakers, now undefeated through six games and 6-0 in league play.

"We weren't taking them to heart early like we did against Hartford," commented Catholic's head mentor Terry Rose.

It looked like the game was going to be over before the rain had a chance to dampen any fans as the Lakers took the opening kickoff 63 yards in 11 plays with Tim Butzger getting the last five yards for the score with a little more than four minutes gone in the game. Ashbrook ran in the extra points and Catholic led 8-0.

Then the unusual happened.

Grand Canyon-size hole on the right side of the line, blew by two statue-like linebackers and out ran the secondary for a 61-yard touchdown gallop. Here also made good on the point-after run and—surprise—it was 8-8.

"We were a little relaxed but that touchdown woke us up," he said. "My heart about dropped all the way to China when they scored."

As it turned out, that was the only offensive threat the Bisons were able to muster until the last quarter as Ashbrook led the powerful rushing game and the defense staked up its opponents at every turn.

Ashbrook put the Lakers ahead to stay with 11:01 left in the first half on a one-yard plunge. He added a touchdown later in the same quarter on a three-yard run and also notched scores in the third and fourth quarters on a pair of one-yard runs as Catholic amassed 291 yards on the ground.

With his four touchdowns and six extra points, Ashbrook now has scored 96 points this season which is six behind area leader Don McAfee of Eau Claire. His 208 rushing yards gives him 1,018 for the season which is also second behind McAfee's 1,162 yards.

The Laker defense, obviously wanting to make up for its first quarter booboo, started rushing six and seven men on quarterback Bryan Pahl. The pressure paid off as they picked off three aerials and sacked him six times for 51 yards in losses.

The quarterback (Pahl) was coming out slow so we started shooting our linebackers because they weren't running up the middle," Rose said.

Catholic's rush got an added boost in the second quarter when one of New Buffalo's offensive line mainstays, Bill Marx, was hobled with a knee injury and played sparingly the rest of the way.

To help hold up the wave of people pressuring his punter, Burnell used fake punt with some success in the first half. The first time the Bisons used it, the ball was kicked to their own blocker, Pahl, and he rifled a pass to Phil Koza that was good for 18 yards and a first down. "They really caught us flat-footed with the fake punt," commented Rose.

"We started using it last week," said Burnell. "It helps keep the rush off the punter because the line doesn't know if he's going to punt."

The Lakers got a bit of a shock when New Buffalo came on the field for its pregame warmups. It seems that the company that makes the Chicago Bears' uniforms was late in filling the order for the Bisons' home jerseys. "The company had six sets of Bears' uniforms there (with the players' names on the back), so I gave George (Papa Bear Halas) a call and he said it was all right for us to use them," grinned Burnell.

So for one game at least, Lake Michigan got to stop the likes of Gale Sayers, Mac Perival, etc.

Swick Too Slick For Western Michigan NMU Back On Playoff Track

From Associated Press

Northern Michigan University got its football machine back on the playoff track this weekend and it's just liable to stay there as long as quarterback Dan Marluce is at the throttle.

Marluce, a sophomore from Iron Mountain, fired a pair of touchdowns Saturday and fullback Stu Botts plunged for another as the Wildcats roared to a 20-7 victory over Eastern Michigan at Ypsilanti.

Mariucci, a sophomore from Iron Mountain, fired a pair of touchdowns Saturday and fullback Stu Botts plunged for another as the Wildcats roared to a 20-7 victory over Eastern Michigan at Ypsilanti.

"That's a pretty good day's work for a quarterback," said Coach Gil Krueger back home in Marquette on Sunday.

Krueger, whose club now stands at 6-1 on the season, feels Northern still has a good chance of making the National Collegiate Athletic Association's Division II post-season playoffs.

"They called about a week ago to see if we'd be interested," Krueger said, "and we told them we sure would."

But Krueger feels his club must win its four remaining games.

"If we can win our last four games, we'll be 10-1. I think we'll get a bid if we do that," Krueger said. "We've already beaten Central and Eastern Michigan — two Mid American Conference teams. And we've beaten Youngstown, which got into the playoffs last season. So I think we've got a pretty good shot."

Krueger concedes it won't be easy. His club still has to get past Saginaw Valley, Grand Valley, St. Norbert (Wis.) and Western Illinois.

"If we make it, our defense can take just as much credit as our offense," the coach said. "Our defense played pretty good against Eastern. They fumbled 11 times and we caused nine of them by hitting. We've got a complete football team in my opinion."

Eastern Coach George Mans apparently agrees with Krueger.

"Well, George is a real gentleman anyway," Krueger said. "And after the game, he came over and said he made a believer out of him."

In other games involving Michigan colleges: Albion got by Kalamazoo 10-7; Adrian edged Olivet 14-13; Ball State upset Central Michigan 16-13; Grand Valley surprised Saginaw Valley 32-5; Hillsdale defeated Wayne State 10-7; Hope downed Alma 14-0; Minnesota-Morris edged Michigan Tech 16-15; Northwood outlasted Ferris State 7-0; and Toledo crushed Western Michigan 25-7.

Michigan humiliated Northwestern 69-0; and Michigan State defeated Minnesota 38-15.

The Lakers kicked off and the Bisons returned it back to their own 34-yard line where on the first play, Catholic was offside, so that brought the ball to the 38. So on the first New Buffalo play from scrimmage, Andy Brandon broke through a

Jim Neddef kicked a 28-yard field goal with 3:22 to play to lift Ball State over Central Michigan. The game was played on a wet, slippery turf in a 25-mile-an-hour wind. The gusts helped Central's Rudy Savich kick a 57-yard field goal, a CMU record, in a losing effort.

The defeat was Central's first in MAC play and left the Chippewas 2-1-1 in the league and 42-1 overall.

Toldeo quarterback Gene Swick was simply too slick for Western Michigan as he rifled a pair of touchdown passes to buck the Broncos. The game was part of the MAC's Festival of Football at Cleveland's Municipal Stadium.

Hope's nationally ranked defense throttled Alma as it ran its victory string to six in a row and posted its third shutout of the season in a Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association contest. Curt Bennett gained 127 yards in 30 carries and scored one touchdown for Hope. Tim Van Heest plowed a yard for the other.

Derrick Diggs bolted 55 yards for one of Adrian's two first-quarter touchdowns and Mark Morris burst one yard for the other. Quarterback Jack Wallace and fullback Mark Jones scored touchdowns for Olivet.

Frank Mohel's kick was good for Olivet's first conversion but Jones was stopped short of the goal line when Coach Doug Kay elected to go for a two-point conversion that would have won the game for the Comets.

Al Bonds hauled in a 26-yard pass from quarterback John Line with just 2:18 left in the game to lift Albion past Kalamazoo.

The victory lifted Hillsdale to a 2-0 mark in the Great Lakes

In another heartstopper, Herb Bradley pulled in a 21-yard scoring pass from Chuck Senykr with only 25 seconds showing on the clock to give Minnesota-Morris a come-from-behind victory over Michigan Tech.

The victory left Morris alone atop the Northern Intercollegiate Conference with a 4-0 league mark. The Cougars are 6-1 on the season. The defeat dropped Tech to 5-2 on the season — 3-2 in NIC play.

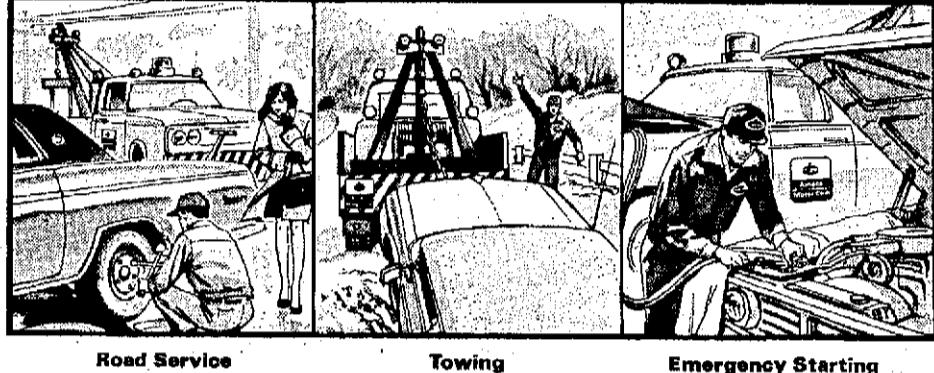

Junior fullback Jamie Hosford scored two touchdowns and gained 212 yards to pace Grand Valley State's thrashing of Saginaw Valley. The triumph extended Grand Valley's winning streak to six and gave the Lakers a 6-1 mark on the season, 2-1 in league play. Saginaw Valley dipped to 1-1 in the GLIAC and 3-3 in the season.

Intercollegiate Athletic Conference; the Chargers are 5-2 overall. Wayne State dipped to 1-1 in conference play and 4-3 overall.

Tim Mackey scored on a one-yard plunge to cap a 39-yard drive and provide the only scoring as Northwood made its Homecoming a happy one with a victory over Ferris State. The victory lifted Northwood to a 4-3 season mark, while the Bulldogs from Big Rapids are winless in seven starts.

Junior fullback Jamie Hosford scored two touchdowns and gained 212 yards to pace Grand Valley State's thrashing of Saginaw Valley. The triumph extended Grand Valley's winning streak to six and gave the Lakers a 6-1 mark on the season, 2-1 in league play. Saginaw Valley dipped to 1-1 in the GLIAC and 3-3 in the season.

Irish Win With 21-Point Fourth Quarter

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Since baseball games are still with us, you might be interested to know that football games, too, are never over until the last ... well, until the last down-and-out.

For example:

—Colorado, No. 12 in The Associated Press ratings, erupted for four touchdowns in a 14-minute span of the second half to erase a 17-3 deficit and defeat 10th-ranked Missouri 31-20.

—Arizona, the No. 13 team, trailed Texas Tech 21-6 at half-time but finally overtook the Red Raiders 32-28 thanks to Lee Pistor's 41-yard field goal with six seconds left and a safety on the ensuing kickoff.

—Notre Dame, No. 15, needed 21 points in the final period for the second week in a row, this time coming from 20 points down to shade the Air Force 31-30 when freshman Jerome Heavens scored from the one with 3:23 remaining.

—Phil Gargis tossed a one-yard pass to Ed Butler and Cedrick McIntyre scored twice on short runs — all within 3½ minutes of the second half — as Auburn came from behind 27-6 and defeated Georgia Tech 31-27. Coach Shug Jordan, in his 23rd and final season, called it "the most thrilling and best victory of them all."

—Jeff Grantz' 23-yard pass to Phillip Logan with 22 seconds left gave South Carolina a 35-29 victory over Mississippi.

Purdue notched its first victory of the season, beating Illinois 26-24 on Mark Vitali's five-yard pass to Paul Beery with 2:32 left.

Ted Brown ran 27 yards for a touchdown with 3:45 remaining and Johnny Evans passed to Don Buckley for two points to rally North Carolina State over North Carolina 21-20. That TD made it 21-14 but the losers had two-point try of their own failed after scoring with 12 seconds left.

Tulane rallied from a 14-0 first-half deficit and edged West Virginia 16-14 on David Walters' 28-yard field goal with 4:17 to go.

Missouri was the only one of the Top Ten teams to lose, while some of the conference races began to take on old familiar looks.

The Big Ten chase, as usual, finds Ohio State and Michigan tied for the lead after No. 1-ranked Ohio State mauled Wisconsin 58-0 while seventh-ranked Michigan clobbered Northwestern 69-0.

The Big Eight has a two-way tie between second-ranked Oklahoma, which downed Kansas State 25-3, and fourth-ranked Nebraska, which outlasted Oklahoma State 28-20 as Vince Ferragamo came off the bench, passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more.

There's a three-way race in the Pacific-8 among third-ranked Southern Cal, No. 18 UCLA and California. USC used Doug Hogan's 61-yard interception return and Ricky Bell's three-yard scoring run to hold off winless Oregon 17-3, UCLA whipped Washington State 37-23 as Eddie Ayers ran for three touchdowns and unranked Cal trounced Oregon State 51-24 as Chuck Muncie scored three times and threw a 47-yard touchdown pass to Wesley Walker.

In the Southwest Conference, fifth-ranked Texas A&M and No. 8 Texas are tied for the lead, one-half game ahead of unranked Rice. The Aggies scored twice in the first half on short runs by Bubba Bean and held on to beat winless Texas Christian 14-6.

Meanwhile, Texas used the defensive heroics of tackle Brad Shearer, who intercepted a pass and recovered a fumble, and touchdown runs by Marty Atkins, Earl Campbell and Gralyn Wyatt to outlast No. 20 Arkansas 24-18 while Rice turned back Southern Methodist 28-17 as Tommy Kramer ran for three touchdowns and passed 13 yards to Kenneth Roy for the other.

The Southeastern Conference shows a two-way tie between Alabama and Florida, who don't play each other. Alabama, ranked No. 6, downed No. 16 Tennessee 30-7 as Richard Todd ran for three touchdowns and passed for a fourth while Jimmy DuBose rushed for 204 yards and Tony Green scored twice to lead No. 14 Florida over Florida

State 34-21. The Terrapins led the Atlantic Coast Conference by one-half game over Duke, which beat Clemson 25-21 on Tony Benjamin's 19-yard run with less than two minutes left after trailing 21-10.

Pete Johnson scored his 15th and 16th touchdowns, Archie Griffin gained 107 yards for his 27th consecutive regular-season 100-yard game and Tim Fox returned a punt 75 yards as Ohio State recorded its most lopsided victory since a 62-0 thumping of Texas Christian in 1969.

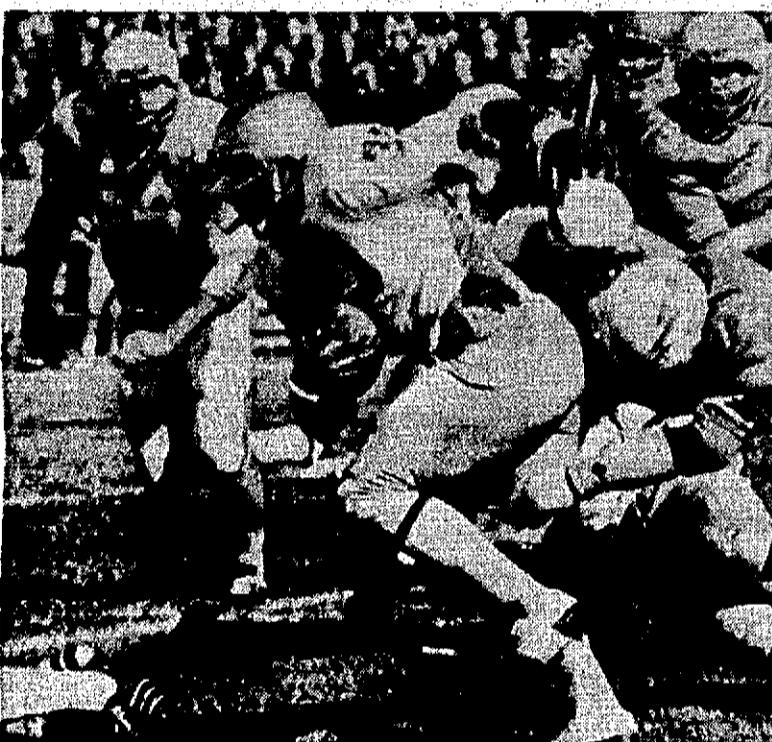

While Oklahoma's Joe Washington was having his poorest day — 49 yards on 18 carries and minus five yards on three punt returns — the defense and kicking game took over to spark the Sooners' 26th consecutive triumph. Tony DiRienzo booted field goals of 50, 34 and 48 yards.

Michigan set a team record and equaled a Big Ten mark by rushing for 573 yards in swamping Northwestern. Harlan Huckleby, Gordon Bell and Rob Lyle combined for 302 yards and scored two touchdowns apiece in the Wolverines' most one-sided victory since another 69-0 clobbering of Pitt in 1947. It was Northwestern's worst drubbing since a 76-0 rout at the hands of the University of Chicago in 1899.

Colorado's rally against Missouri was sparked by Tony Reed, who ran for eight-and 42-yard touchdowns, and David Williams, who scored on a one-yard run and passed nine yards to Don Hasselbeck.

SMC Tops Irish In Madison Run

MADISON, Wis. — Southwestern Michigan College runners finished second in a strong four-year college field here Saturday at the Tom Jones Invitational.

SMC finished second with 90 points in the strong 15-team field. The Big Ten's Wisconsin won with 35 while South Dakota State was third with 119. Notre Dame fourth (138) and SMC runner, was 38th while running for South Dakota State.

"That gives us pretty good stature," commented SMC coach Ron Gunn after the strong Roadrunner showing against the ranked four-year schools.

The next SMC action is the conference meet at 3 p.m. Friday at Johnson Park in Grand Rapids.

Good Looking Gal Swimmers Change Boos To Applause

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The Americans have finally found what it takes to stop catcalling and whistling at them in the VII Pan American Games — the U.S. women's swimming team.

"The girls are cheered instead of booed because the Mexicans think the American girls are so good looking," said Peter Rocca, Orinda, Calif., who won a gold medal for the U.S. Sunday night in the men's 100-meter backstroke.

"I talked this over with the other guys, and they think the same thing," he added.

There was a smattering of the usual hooting and whistling — boozing's international equivalent — as the U.S. men chattered to methodical, recordbreaking victories in the first heavy day of aquatics events Sunday, but for the girls, who added their share of records too, there were bursts of enthusiastic applause.

The swimmers, as expected, lit the fire under the sluggish American performance, and helped the U.S. win 10 of 18 gold medals Sunday, and move out to a 47-32 edge over runnerup Cuba in the race for supremacy here.

Rocca's 58.31 in the 100 backstroke was also a Games' record, as was Rick Coletta of Seattle at 1:06.02 in the 100 meter breaststroke.

The American women's 400 meter medley relay team set a Games record with a time of 4:22.34, and Kathy Heddle of Summertown, Tenn., won the women's 200 meter individual medley with a record-breaking both were in Games' record time. Bruce Jenner, San Jose, Calif., improved Bill Toomey's 1967 mark in the decathlon by one point to 8,045. Jan Merrill, Waterford, Conn., put her name in the Games' record book with a 4:18.32 clocking in the first women's 1,500 meters ever run in these quadrennial games.

Jenner's 58.31 in the 100 backstroke was also a Games' record, as was Rick Coletta of Seattle at 1:06.02 in the 100 meter breaststroke.

The American women's 400 meter medley relay team set a Games record with a time of 4:22.34, and Kathy Heddle of Summertown, Tenn., won the women's 200 meter individual medley with a record-breaking 2:22.22.

While all of that was going on, the U.S. women — for the most part — were treated with respect even though they took a titanic, come-from-behind 3-2 victory from Mexico in volleyball. The Mexicans took the first two games, 15-6; 16-7, and were leading in the third game before the Americans came back for a 15-12 victory, then went on to 16-14 and 15-11 triumphs.

In contrast to some of the displays of poor sportsmanship so far here, the Mexican and U.S. girls shook hands and embraced after the game, as the partisan crowd roared its approval.

The most flagrant display of poor sportsmanship in the Games had a few members of the U.S. water polo team still feeling a bit hurt today. Three players were injured — goalie Eric Lindroth, Newport Beach, Calif., needed 10 stitches for a split lip — when Cubans decided to retaliate for a 3-1 loss to the U.S. in water polo Saturday.

"They realized they couldn't win, and they started pulling cheap punches," said U.S. Coach Pete Cutino. The Americans were applauded for refusing to fight back.

Still, the lame Yanks came back Sunday night for a gutsy 6-5 victory over Canada.

With help from the swimmers and improved performances in track and field, the U.S. steadily pulled ahead of the frustrated Cubans in the gold medal race, which the surprising islanders led for the first several days of the games.

After seven full days of competition, the U.S. gold-silver-bronze count was 47-41-23 with Cuba next at 32-26-14. Other leading nations were Canada 10-15-18, Mexico 4-5-16 and Brazil 6-7-12.

The United States, besides its four swimming golds and two more in track and field, got a gold medal in the equestrian Grand Prix, and three of eight in rowing — where at least six had been hoped for.

Argentina's O.A. Vergara won a gold medal in fencing's individual epee finals.

Jorge Delgado of Ecuador put a quick end to U.S. hopes of a sweep of golds in every swimming event by beating Rick DeMont, San Francisco, in a Games record of 1:35.45 in the men's 200 meter freestyle. DeMont finished a half-stroke back.

they had two goals."

The goals were by Ross Lonsberry and rookie Mel Bridgeman, who were followed in the scoring parade by Orest Kindrachuk, Bill Barber and Bob Kelly.

In other National Hockey League action, the Buffalo Sabres trimmed the Washington Capitals 5-4; the Chicago Black Hawks edged the Minnesota North Stars 3-2; the Boston Bruins blanked the Toronto Maple Leafs 3-0 and the New York Rangers blasted the Vancouver Canucks 8-1.

Rick Martin scored three goals in the first period — two 14 seconds apart — and undefeated Buffalo outshot Washington 45-11 in recording its fifth victory this season.

Seldom-used Alain Daigle scored two first-period goals and 19-year-old Grant Mulvey connected on a second rebound shot midway in the third period to lead Chicago past Minnesota.

Andre Savard and Terry O'Reilly broke a scoreless tie with goals 37 seconds apart in the second period and Gilles Gilbert stopped 24 shots for his first shutout of the season in Boston's victory.

Jean Ratelle had a goal and three assists, leading linemates Rod Gilbert and Steve Vickers to a three-goal, six-assist performance in New York's rout of sluggish Vancouver.

approach to hockey life while his players take an almost boring tack — win, win, win.

Especially against the Detroit Red Wings. The Wings, winless in seven games anywhere this season, haven't won in five years at Philadelphia's Spectrum.

"You can give teams like Washington a few chances and they won't score," said Doug Barkley, coach of the Wings who have lost four and tied three games under his leadership. "You can't do that against teams like this. We made two mistakes in the first period and that statement would be surprising only if it came from someone other than Fred Shero of the Philadelphia Flyers. He always takes an off-beat

New Pro Wrestling Tour Will Open In Ann Arbor

GRASS LAKE, Mich. (AP) — Ted Clark has had to grapple with a lot of organizational headaches, but the former Bowling Green matman says the loose ends have been pinned down and he's ready to launch a pro wrestlers' tour.

"We have signed Olympic gold medal winners, NCAA champions, All-Americans and several NCAA head coaches who'll compete," said Clark, president of the International Tournament Wrestling Association, Inc.

The ITWA will begin a six-city tour at Ann Arbor, Mich., in December, Clark said. Philadelphia will be the next stop, followed by Chicago, Iowa City, Oklahoma City and then a championship March 27-28 in Cleveland.

"There are nearly 10 million amateur wrestling fans and over 300,000-plus prep and college wrestlers in the United States, and so I'm confident of a successful tour," he said.

"Our goal is to be financially stable. If we have to drop one of the stops we'll do it."

Clark, who said he was a Mid-American Conference wrestling champ at Bowling Green before being injured as a junior, said the ITWA would involve "tournament wrestling" and that "we don't want the eye gougers to try to take over."

"We have nothing against them," he said, referring to the "actor" type professional wrestlers, "but we want to be differentiated from them."

Clark, who owns a construction company in Grass Lake near Jackson, said he's been trying to organize the ITWA since April 1974.

"I didn't have any formidable problems," he said. "I've been just tying things together, getting the competitors and everything. It's just taken time."

He said 300 wrestlers will be under contract and the format will include some local grapplers from around the various tour stops.

There will be 10 weight classes competing from 125 pounds up to heavyweight, Clark said, and there will be cash prizes of $500, $250, $100 and $50 for the first four places.

"We'll have modified collegiate rules," he said. "We have a group of people working on it."

"We'll have a Bicentennial theme," he said. "Wrestlers will be paraded into a meet behind four girls, a fife and drum, American flag and Bicentennial flag. We'll add a little color to it."

Joan Shadle New Board President For Cancer Unit

Mrs. Larry (Joan) Shadle of St. Joseph township has been elected president of the board of directors of the American Cancer Society's Berrien county unit.

Mrs. Shadle succeeds Dr. David Peshka, Niles, who remains on the board of directors.

Other newly elected officers are Al Benson, vice president, and Mrs. Marie Trump, secretary-treasurer.

Committee chairmen include Mrs. Clayton Kutz, professional education; Mrs. Barbara Pozwizko, transportation; Mrs. Marie Trump, public education; and Gerald Kuhn, public information.

Mrs. Shadle, whose husband is auto mechanics teacher at St. Joseph high school, is the mother of two children, Nancy, five, and Bonnie, one. The Shadles reside at 1422 Glenwood drive, St. Joseph township.

She has been active in the cancer program for the past five years, serving as crusade chairman of the St. Joseph township crusade service committee for the past two years, and has been on the board of directors for the past three years. This past year she served as secretary-treasurer.

Charles Loud, director of the Berrien county unit, announces that 1975 Christmas cards are available as memorials at headquarter offices. Proceeds are used for furtherance of the cancer crusade.

Motor Oil

I want to help your car's engine live to a ripe old age.

By Bruce Boswell, Shell Lubrication Expert

Whether you use Shell or another motor oil this information might put off that awful moment when the mechanic says, "This isn't going to be cheap."

Motor oil is your engine's life blood. The type of oil you use and the way you use it can help you get thousands of extra miles without a major engine repair.

Oil's enormous job

At 55 mph, each piston in your engine moves up and down inside its cylinder about 35 times a second. It travels about a quarter of a mile for every mile you drive. When you step on the gas, the piston rods push against the crankshaft with a pressure of more than a thousand pounds per square inch.

A film of motor oil thinner than this newspaper page separates these parts and keeps them from grinding each other to pieces.

Besides this lubricating job, a motor oil should clean the engine, help cool it, and protect against rusting. With all this work to do, your motor oil deserves your attention.

SAE 10W, SAE 30, etc. What those numbers really mean

Those are viscosity grades. They tell how thick the oil is. The higher the number, the thicker the oil.

The SAE stands for the Society of Automotive Engineers, who set up the grades. The W means it's for cold weather use.

When starting an engine in cold weather, a thin oil like 10W will flow well and protect well. But as the engine gets hotter, the oil gets thinner, and a 10W can't always protect a hot engine adequately.

The opposite is true for a high viscosity grade like SAE 30 or 40. It's thick enough to protect a hot engine, but on a really cold morning it would be too thick. The engine

Try this motor oil fact or myth quiz.

Your oil can look dirty and still be OK. Fact. The oil gets dark because engine contamination is being held in the oil instead of deposited in the engine.

Motor oils made from Pennsylvania crude necessarily perform better. Myth. Where the crude oil comes from has little to do with the quality of the finished product. Refining and additives make the important differences in motor oils.

Everyone should change the filter every time they change oil. Myth. Most car makers recommend changing the filter every other time. If you're changing it every time, you may be wasting money. Check your owner's manual to find out.

Multigrade oil can save gasoline. Fact. In a cold start-up, a 10W-30 or 10W-40 multigrade oil will be thinner than a single grade 30 weight. Therefore the engine runs with less drag and uses less gasoline. In cold-weather short-trip driving, when the engine never really gets warmed up, some drivers may save as much as 3.4 percent, depending on the car and the temperature.

would be hard to start and the thick oil would be slow getting to vital parts.

Multigrades

Multigrade oils, the kind with two numbers like 10W-40, contain chemicals called polymers that make them act like low viscosity grade oils when the engine is cold and high viscosity grade oils when the engine is hot.

So why doesn't everybody buy multigrades?

Because single grades generally cost less. And many people can use them satisfactorily, depending on the weather and the way they drive. To find the grades that we recommend for the temperature range in your area, see the chart at right.

Things to consider when choosing a motor oil

Consider the kind of driving you do. Perhaps a single grade 10W is right for normal winter driving in your area. But on a long highway trip with a heavy load, the engine will get pretty hot even though it's cold outside. You'd need a 10W-30 or 10W-40 for high temperature protection as well as quick winter starts.

The condition of the car can make a difference. If the car is hard to start when it's cold, a low viscosity oil can help it turn over. If your car is an "oil burner", a high viscosity oil can cut consumption. (But get it fixed as soon as you can. It pollutes.)

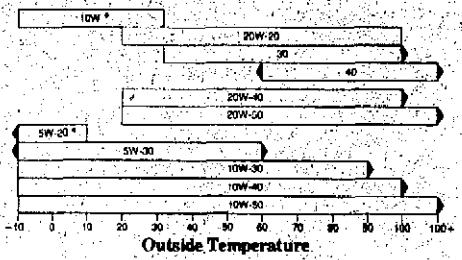

It doesn't hurt to mix when adding oil—if the oil in your engine is right for your car, and the oil you're adding is too, it doesn't make any difference if they're different brands.

Today's cars need not be "broken in" with any special oil. At your first oil change, commendable job of protecting against the dirt, soot, acid, and other junk that gets into your oil. The oil's detergent properties are so good that about a pound of this contamination can be suspended in your oil where it will drain out at changing time.

But there's a limit to what the oil can do. If you don't change, eventually the additives that suspend dirt, fight wear, and so forth will be used up, and trouble can start.

So, while you can save a few bucks on oil over the life of a car by stretching between changes, I don't think it's worth the risk.

Now some information about Shell motor oils:

Check the Shell lineup for the right motor oil for your car.

Shell X-100® motor oils are available in single grades SAE 10W, 20W, 30, and 40. Each offers the protection you need for its temperature range. And each meets the warranty service requirements of every U.S. car maker. And most foreign cars.

Shell X-100® Multigrade motor oil is an SAE 10W-40, an all-season oil offering excellent high temperature protection plus good low temperature startability. Its patented formula fights sludge and other contaminants that can harm your engine.

Shell Super X® motor oil earns the 10W-50 rating, the widest multigrade range you can buy. If you want even greater high temperature protection than Shell 10W-40, this oil is for you.

With proper care and a top quality motor oil (and Shell Super X is our finest), we believe that most of today's newer cars can be expected to go 100,000 miles without a major engine repair and with no appreciable sacrifice in performance.

The highest pressure in your engine is where the camshaft (A) pushes against the valve lifters (B). Here, an anti-wear additive in the oil lays down a thin film that must protect while pressure reaches about 100,000 lbs. per sq. inch.

start off with the right oil for your car, then stick with it.

A good oil doesn't need help from an oil treatment. An oil that meets the car maker's warranty service requirements is designed to do everything your engine needs. Look for "Service Classification SE" on the can.

What oil changes really do

Maybe you've heard a story about a guy who never changed his oil and drove 50,000 miles without a breakdown. Some of those stories might be true for all I know. But I wouldn't try it with my car.

The fact is, you play the odds with oil changes.

Today's high quality oils and filters do a

'Battered Child' Authority To Lead Seminar At LMC

A nationally recognized authority in the field of child abuse and neglect will conduct a seminar on that topic Nov. 15 at Lake Michigan college.

Ray E. Helfer, M.D., a professor in the department of human development at Michigan State university, will be featured speaker at the day-long meeting.

Dr. Helfer is the author of "The Battered Child" and "Helping the Battered Child and His Family" and has helped develop child consultation and treatment programs throughout the United States.

The seminar is sponsored by the Berrien county department of social services, the juvenile division of the Berrien Probate court and Lake Michigan college's criminal justice program.

Registration fee of $6.00 includes lunch. Registration will be held from 8:15-8:45 a.m. with seminar sessions from 9:45-11:45 before lunch and 1-4 in the afternoon.

Pre-registration forms are available at the department of social services.

He said he expects board will call special meeting to consider the matter. Reinstatement order resulted from hearing before employment relations commission last May in which secretaries were represented by local 586 of Service Employees International union.

New Buffalo Elementary School Dedication Is October 23

NEW BUFFALO — The New Buffalo school board has set Thursday, Oct. 23, as open house for the new elementary addition to the New Buffalo schools. The program will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the all purpose room of the elementary school on Detroit street. Speakers for a short dedication ceremony will be Leo S. Mundt, board president, and Robert McLean, an architect for the Grand Rapids firm of Damerow and Associates. Fourth and fifth grade students will take part in the dedication ceremonies. Supt. Walter R. Schwarz and Robert Heit, elementary principal, will also address the audience. Following the program, the elementary teachers will be in their rooms and the building will be open to visitors. Refreshments provided by the New Buffalo Parent-Teacher organization will be served.

His third place overall finish earned Rutter $255. Hart cap-

8,000 WATCH BUCHANAN RACES

Motocross Is Big Hit Here

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

BUCHANAN — Motocross racing has become an important part of Bob Rutter's life.

And Sunday area motocross race fans found out why. The Benton Harbor native finished first and fourth in the two heats to cap third place in the 250cc class of the Trans-AMA International Motorcross race at Red Bud Track and Trail near here.

It capped an impressive weekend for Rutter. The 17-year old was selected King Friday night at the Eau Claire high school Homecoming festivities.

More than 8,000 fans braved chilly rains to watch four-time world champion Roger DeCoster of Belgium rally to win the open class (500cc cycles). The win extended DeCoster's point lead in the Trans-AMA series.

Tim Hart of Torrance, Calif., won the 250cc class with Buck Murphy of Long Branch, Wash., second.

Though only 17, Rutter is almost a veteran in the motorcycle racing circles. He started riding a cycle at the age of five and has been racing as a pro for the past year. His professional career began with the Florida series last December.

"Our whole family had motorcycles so I started riding early," he said. "I was the youngest in the family so I had to have one, too."

Bob's brother John, 22, and sister Sandy, 23, have since quit riding cycles. His first racing came against neighbors when he was 12.

"Some friends and I would ride every day," Rutter said. "We would have races around the neighborhood. Then they got the track here."

Bob's father, Walter Rutter, was originally against his racing. The senior Rutter is a former stock car racer. He was, in fact, the No. 1 clay track racer in Michigan in 1949 and 1950.

"My parents weren't going to let me race," Bob said. "I would sneak out and race anyway."

Bob would race at a track in Allegan and when his father finally found out, he decided "If he's going to race, we'd better help him."

Rutter's credentials in racing include the 1974 District 15 (Indiana - Michigan) high point rider in the 125cc class, and this year he's the high point District 15 rider in the 250cc division.

Rutter also won the District 15 rider in the 250cc division.

His first race Rutter got the lead on the first lap and never trailed. He was seventh on the hole shot of the second heat, however, and never recovered.

In the second race, mud was flying in my face," he explained. "I didn't get off to a good jump and I couldn't see so I had to slow down at times."

Physically he will jog, ride bicycles and work with weights to get in condition.

His game plan was changed partially Sunday because of the muddy track.

"I wanted to get the lead on the hole shot," he said. "If you get the lead on that first turn, you don't get as muddy and the mud is not flying in your face."

In the first race Rutter got the lead on that first lap and never trailed. He was seventh on the hole shot of the second heat, however, and never recovered.

His third place overall finish

tured the title by finishing second in the first heat behind Rutter and then winning the second. He collected $380 in prize money.

DeCoster came from nowhere to win the international race. He slid into a tree on the backstroch of the first lap in the first race. There was no damage to either his bike or himself, but by the time he recovered, DeCoster stood in 23rd place.

A brilliant comeback brought him to fourth in the first heat behind Tony DiStefano, Morrisville, Pa., Jim Pomeroy, Yakima, Wash., and Brad Lackey of Pinole, Calif.

DeCoster came back to win the second 40-minute race and thus claimed the overall title.

"The track was very difficult to ride," he said. "It was very slippery and the mud was sticky. It was a good track, though, and we're lucky it stopped raining during the race."

DeCoster picked up $2,000 for first place, while Pomeroy took home $1,540 for second.

FLYING HIGH: Four-time world motocross champion Roger DeCoster of Belgium lived up to his reputation Sunday as he soared to victory in open class of Trans-AMA International motocross race at Red Bud

Pair Accused Of Extortion Surrender In St. Joseph

By JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau

NEW BUFFALO — A New Buffalo couple wanted in connection with the alleged extortion of money from a 73-year-old widow here turned themselves in to police last night, New Buffalo police reported.

Dale Siebenmark, city police chief, said that the couple, Jack

Rheinholtz, 34, and his wife,

Barrie, 31, of 518½ West Buf-

fax street, turned themselves in at the Berrien county sheriff's department in St. Joseph about 11 p.m.

Siebenmark said both were lodged in the county jail by charges of extortion.

Warrants for the arrest of the couple were issued after the Wednesday arrest of eight juveniles boys, ages 12-18, including two of their sons. The juveniles were taken into custody in connection with the alleged year-long extortion of money from Mrs. Emma Weiderich, Ferena Square apartments, New Buffalo.

Ed Lyons, New Buffalo police patrolman, said he would seek authorization for a warrant for one other parent of one of the boys.

Seven of the boys have been released to the custody of their parents, while an eighth boy has been lodged in the Berrien county youth detention center.

Two of the boys were taken into custody after New Buffalo police and Berrien county Metro crime unit officers charged that they observed two boys attempting to extort money from the woman on Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Weiderich said the boys collected over $1,000 from her during a year-long period of threats, damage to her home and at least one alleged assault on her.

Registration Slated For Senior Citizens

The Southwestern Michigan Senior Information and Referral Service (SIRS) will register area senior citizens this week, according to Charley Walker, SIRS director.

The purpose of the registration, according to Miss Walker, is to locate all the aged in the area and make them aware of the services that are available to them. Senior citizens should call the SIRS center nearest them for location and dates of registration, she said.

SIRS centers, directors and phone numbers are: Benton Harbor-Benton township, Betty Smith, 927-2497; St. Joseph-Lincoln, Paula French, 483-1617; River Valley, Judy Pompegat, 400-4556; Niles, Ruth Lugon, 683-9380; Berrien Springs, Barb Williams, 471-2017; Cassopolis, Kathe McCleave, 445-8110; Covert, Georgia Bailey, 704-8074; Paw Paw, Eleanore Shippick, 657-6994, and the central SIRS office, St. Joseph, 983-2582.

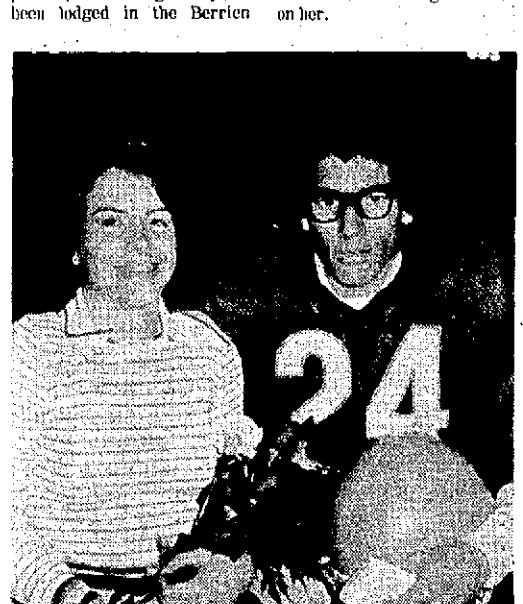

Registration is slated for Nov. 3 for Baroda Bridge

BARODA — Baroda village council will hold a public hearing on the proposed reconstruction of the Church street bridge, Monday, Nov. 3, at 8 p.m., in the Baroda township hall, according to Mrs. Irene Tillas, village clerk.

The proposed bridge will replace one that collapsed on June 20, just after a truck carrying 120,000 pounds of steel crossed over it.

Drawings, plans and the executed negative declaration will be available to the public for inspection at this time. The council will discuss tentative schedules for right-of-way acquisition and construction.

Written statements and other exhibits, in place of oral statements, which will be

NEWS OF MARKETS

GNP News Cheers Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned upward today with a lift from news of a big jump in the nation's Gross National Product during the third quarter.

The opening Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up a fraction, and gainers took a 4-3 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

As trading began the government reported that the GNP climbed at an 11.2 per cent annual rate—after separating out the effects of inflation—during the July-September quarter.

It was the biggest jump in 20 years in the important measure of economic activity.

The sharp improvement in the GNP had been widely predicted. But it nevertheless seemed to cheer investors after a nervous session Friday while New York City narrowly averted a default on some maturing debts.

Today's early prices included Westinghouse Electric, down 1/4 at 12 1/2; Sundstrand, unchanged at 17 1/2; C.R. Bard, up 3/4 at 12 3/4; and Holiday Inns, ahead 1/4 at 12 1/2.

On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average slipped 5.67 points to 832.18 in a volatile session.

But NYSE volume was only moderate at 15.65 million shares.

Losers outnumbered gainers by about a 9-5 margin on the Big Board, and the exchange's composite index was off .27 at 47.00.

All the American Stock Exchange, the market value index, fell .57 to 83.38.

Bank Site Of Clinic For Quitters

NILES — Smokers who want to "kick" the habit, but who have been unable to do it on their own, are invited to a five-day quit smoking clinic this week at the National Bank and Trust Co., Fourth street and Broadway, Niles.

The program is sponsored by the Berrien county chapter of the Ameri can Cancer Society and the Seventh Day Adventist church, Berrien Springs.

Dr. David Peshka, a general practitioner in Niles, and Dr. Horace Shaw, director of the Andrews university alumni association, will direct the program which will be held from 7:30 p.m.-9 p.m. tonight through Friday in the bank's community room.

The five-day plan is an international program of group therapy sessions, utilizing films, lectures and demonstrations. Those attending will use the "buddy system" and each person will be given a personal control book to follow each day.

There will be a nominal registration fee to help defray cost of the clinic.

court house, where I have a personal checking account. I arrived just as the door was locked. I looked pleadingly at the gentleman locking the door and knew another trip into St. Joseph was forthcoming tomorrow.

This morning, as I was sitting at the table and drinking coffee with my wife, I said, "It seems to me that people should be able to write checks to a court." "Yes," my wife said and she soon left for work.

I am still sitting home, at 8 a.m., waiting for the Coloma State Bank to open so I can cash a check and take the money to St. Joseph. At this time, I decided to call the courthouse and find out who has determined that checks will not be honored by the Fifth District court.

After three phone calls I was connected with Mary Dent. I told Mary Dent what I thought of $19 fines and not being able to write a check. Adding that a lot of inconvenience and wasted time was placed upon people. She said, "the money could be mailed in." "No cash money would I mail," said I. Well Mary Dent explained, Money orders, cashier checks etc., could be used and cash should not be sent.

At some time I asked who has set the policy of "no checks" and fine fees. Mary Dent explained that the judges and herself have set the policy of not accepting personal checks. Mary Dent continued that much petty cash was tied up in checks, with insufficient funds, in past years, and that is what brought about their present policy.

Well, after disagreeing several times with Mary Dent, I thanked her and hung up. I appreciate Mary Dent being very courtly at all times, with an angry and upset man, who probably should have paid the first lady and forgot this whole thing.

The National Right to Life Committee (NRLC) has a single, full-time paid employee and is not yet three years old. How could it compare to the organization and expertise of such venerable lobbies as the chemical companies, medical societies and automobile industry? This generalization is flattering, but misrepresents the NRLC.

Perhaps the problem here is a compounding of two other common errors, the use of undefined terms and abstractions. What is a "special interest lobby" and what exactly makes it "single-minded"? What is the difference between a lobby and a "special interest lobby"?

Three prominent lobbies, that is groups attempting to influence pending legislation, are tobacco, utility and labor. They watch congress closely to guard their financial interests. Does "special interest" then mean interested in personal gain? No one would benefit in that way from a Human Life Amendment.

Would Nader's Raiders be termed "single-minded", since one man's mind controls operations, even though they lobby about everything from nuclear power to aspirins? These few examples demonstrate that the key terms are imprecise and not easily defined.

The NRLC is working for the equal recognition and protection of every human life through an amendment to the Constitution. Since eight different amendments were under consideration by Senator Bayh's subcommittee, right to life advocates are not "single-minded" on how to achieve this legal equality for every human life, if by "single-minded" is meant lacking in flexibility or range.

The introduced amendments included states rights versions (re-instatement of pre-court decision conditions) as well as bills allowing abortions for rape, incest, fetal deformity and to save the mother's life. Some re-defined the word person, as used in the Constitution, to include the unborn. It is important to note here that ALL of the amendments would have allowed abortions at least to save the life of the mother.

Mr. Alton Howard and the people of Watervliet will only be exercising their constitutional right to vote on the subject and I don't think it's right for people in the state health department to be going around the state promoting fluoridation at the expense of the taxpayer. I don't think that the anti-fluoridationists can prove that anyone has died from the effects of fluoridation, on the other hand, I am most sure that the proponents can't either.

Now, Mr. Editor, let's get down to real facts. Why don't you use some of your editorial space and teach personal hygiene? This is the answer. Have you ever seen the soft drink trucks delivering their pop to our elementary schools? And have you noticed the candy vending machines? Wouldn't it be better if the trucks were delivering milk instead? Do you know that there are fluorine tablets that could take the place of fluoridated water. These could be used for the children and given by the teacher because most of the parents don't care how much sweet stuff the children consume anyway.

Under separate cover I am sending the booklet, "Why Doctor's Disagree". I hope you will read it with an open mind if it is not too late. If it were possible to participate in a survey and check say 100 students from St. Joseph high school who have been drinking fluoridated water at least for ten years, in contrast to say 100 students from Lakeshore high school who have not, and on the strength of other surveys, I would say there would be no significant difference in the number of cavities.

Ms. Means' treatment of the testimony by four Catholic cardinals before the subcommittee is the least excusable of logical errors, a fact error. Fact errors are due to ignorance, laziness or deliberate intent (a lie). The article stated that the cardinals commented at the hearings that abortion "should be illegal even if doctors thought it necessary to save a mother's life."

If this were true, why would they have testified FOR a Human Life Amendment when, as already stated, every proposed article permitted abortions for that reason? The statement in the column is, however, untrue. Boston's Cardinal Humberto Medeiros on March 7, 1974 said that the direct intention of any operation must be to SAVE a life and not destroy a child's life. The amendments must make the EMPHASIS clear to be acceptable to the cardinals.

Even if unable to obtain a copy of the hearings, the proper research would have brought a statement by Pope Pius XII to the author's attention: "Never and in no case has the church taught that the life of the child must be preferred to the life of the mother." Cardinals can not contradict popes.

Another fact error occurred in the statement: "Bayh never committed himself publicly on the abortion issue before the committee vote". The senator spoke to the Indiana Right to Life Convention on September 23, 1974. His speech was widely covered by the state press because of the senatorial elections. Bayh said "I have been and continue to be strongly opposed to the unlimited right of a pregnant woman to destroy a potential life because she may happen to find it inconvenient."

One more fact error: LIFE LETTER is not affiliated with the National Right to Life Committee, who's monthly newsletter is a 16-page tabloid, the NRLC NEWS.

The charge that the NRLC is Catholic financed is an argument ad hominem and poor syllogistic reasoning. The National Abortion Rights Action League (NARAL) has received substantial funds from the Ford, Rockefeller and Playboy Foundations. Should the conclusion from this information be that legal abortion was a result of a big-business, anti-family plot? Although many prominent humanists and atheists such as Madalyn Murray O'Hair and Alan Guttmacher took an active role for legal abortion on demand, would it be correct to call the entire movement an atheist plot?

No. As in any movement based on an ideal, it transcends attempts to categorize its followers in petty, limited ways. There were people involved who, regardless of backgrounds, felt their goal correct. THAT is what any logical discourse must take into account — ideas. To call or imply that the right of life movement is a Catholic plot because Catholics are involved is to be equally petty.

The column's basic error is ignorant, cliché, that is ignoring the topic at issue. The purpose of subcommittee hearings is to thoroughly investigate an issue and determine if there is enough national interest to justify debate by the full committee and later congress.

When over half of the committee members never attended a single hearing and only Bayh regularly attended, it is doubtful they investigated anything as a committee. Even though six of the eleven members didn't attend the sessions, and no confirmation was given they had tried to read the transcripts, they were allowed to vote. Their votes were not informed votes, but political votes aimed at avoiding the issue. Doesn't this make a farce out of the entire proceedings? Was this a "responsible legislative course" as Ms. Means commented?

The amendments are not dead. They are being reintroduced in the Senate without loss of a single sponsor. In addition, the full Senate Judiciary Committee will be asked to review at least one of the bills, a states' rights version which gained a tie vote in Bayh's subcommittee. Rep. Don Edwards, House Judiciary Committee, has promised to hold hearings on the Human Life Amendments yet this fall. Bayh's subcommittee was the beginning on congressional attention. It will not be the end.

TEACHER STRIKES ARE CRITICIZED

Editor,

One of the issues in the news this fall is teacher strikes, where teachers seem to call for more and more money and benefits. Without collective bargaining it is quite possible they would be taken advantage of, but where has the dedication and integrity of teachers gone?

To be a teacher is a high calling. For under his/her direction are the nation's youth, tomorrow's leaders. They will learn from the teachers' actions as well as words. What actions are they now learning? To Strike. To Cause Crimes. To Not Work. To Think Only of Themselves.

"The true teacher is not satisfied with second-rate work. He is not satisfied with directing his students to a standard lower than the highest which it is possible for them to attain. He cannot be content with imparting to them only technical knowledge, with making them merely clever accountants, skillful artisans, successful tradesmen. It is his ambition to inspire them with principles of truth, obedience, honor, integrity, and purity — principles that will make them a positive force for the stability and uplifting of society. He desires them, above all else, to learn life's great lesson of unselfish service." White, Ellen G. EDUCATION, pp. 29.

Yes, these are ideals, but we will reach no higher than we aim.

HOW DANGEROUS IS FLUORIDE IN WATER?

Editor,

Widely advertised tooth pastes are sold at all drug stores for the prevention of cavities in children's teeth. The addition to our drinking water of fluoride is an extremely controversial question in Watervliet. Is fluoride poison? This question can be easily settled by finding the definition of the word in any authentic college dictionary.

The Christian Science Monitor, universally considered as one of the best edited and most truthful papers in the country, will give you the authenticated truth concerning fluoride in your drinking water. Write them.

Many people do not seem to worry about high prices, high taxes, the vast increase in violent crime and drugs in our schools and universities, etc. If they can only get fluoride in their drinking water and add yet another tax.

Do not confuse manufactured fluoride with the infinitesimal amount of natural fluoride added by nature to some of our springs and wells. It has been reasonably established that fluoride added to drinking water has proved very injurious to some people. Are these good folks expendable? It is said only nine million people in the United States are now drinking fluoride treated water.

We need new or used furniture to be donated to Leakey Books Memorial Center, a new residential beacon in Berrien County for young and adolescent mothers and their infants. The home will teach mothering and parenting skills and be a free outreach family planning and counseling center. We need beds, baby beds, tables, desks, lamps, infant furniture, computers and electronics.

Leakey Books Memorial Center is a non-profit organization sponsored by Berrien County Action, Inc.

Mother Thinks Eastern School Too Liberated

Q: I read that Caroline Kennedy is going to study art history at Sotheby's auction house in England. I thought you said she was going to Radcliffe. — Y.C., Albuquerque, N.M.

A: There seems to be a sudden change in plans. Apparently her mother left that Radcliffe, in Cambridge, Mass., was bit too liberated for the impetuous Caroline, who has had to be restrained from taking up bullfighting in Spain and learning to fly in Connecticut.

Q: I've heard rumors that some promoters want to present real performances of that terribly savage game shown in the movie "Rollerball." Is it likely to happen? — D.V., Columbia, S.C.

A: Not if Norman Jewison, who produced the film, has anything to say about it. He is outraged that some money-men have actually contacted him for rights to the game which pits contestants with spiked gloves against others on speeding mo-

CAROLINE: A change in school plans.

MARSHA: A hand in DeNiro's firing?

JEWISON: No real 'Rollerball.'

tortices. Jewison says the idea of the picture was to show the sickness and insanity of vicious contact sports not their allure.

Q: You read such conflicting stories and I wonder what the real reason was for Mike Nichols firing that fine actor Robert DeNiro from "Begart Sept. Here." — L.G., Chicago, Ill.

A: The most interesting explanation we've had so far is that DeNiro's co-star, Marsha Mason, is the culprit, reportedly even trying to direct DeNiro. Remember that Ms. Mason in real life is the wife of the author of the script, none other than the all-powerful Neil Simon.

Q: Do you really think women's lib has taken hold and had any effect? — B.C., Des Moines, Iowa.

A: We do indeed. For instance, The Tracer's Company of America (one of the larger missing persons bureaus) used to report twice as many husbands missing as wives back in the early '70s. But in 1974, missing wives outnumbered husbands for the first time in the company's history.

Q: Is Mc-Time golf a very snobby sport? — D.J., San Antonio, Tex.

A: These days it's nothing like it used to be. However, little remnants of the old-time class distinctions still remain. Jack Nicklaus' caddy, Angelo Argea, had the temerity to stroll into the off-limits dining room at Pinehurst, during the World Open Championship to speak to Nicklaus. — Stuffy ... Deanie Beaman, who heads the touring pro's association, immediately suspended Argea for 30 days for that transgression. Now we call that snobby.

Q: Has Shirley MacLaine ever divorced Steve Parker? I believe he still lives in Japan. Is he rich? — R.Q., Memphis, Tenn.

A: No, Shirley and Steve are still married and, yes, he continues to live in Japan. Shirley underwrites most of Steve's projects and has footed the payroll for the staff of six people he has continued to employ. She is extremely loyal to him and friends say that her checkbook will be open to him for as long as he lives.
